A DEFINITION OF EDUCATION:

"It's the process whereby a pupil who must be taught is transformed into a student who teaches himself ... You educate yourself or you fall by the wayside". This is the definition of Frederick Gardiner, a man of tremendous energy and great wisdom, former Chairman of the Metropolitan Toronto Council. The realization that one must teach himself is one of the secrets of success, in or out of school. Only when the student realizes that he is working for himself—not for his teacher—does schooling become real education. If he carries that realization into life and tackles each job, not because his boss wants him to, but because he sees an opportunity for himself in it, he is almost sure to succeed. The executive of our "Blue and White" have had the experience of working on a project, and working hard, not because they had to, but because they wanted to.

The publication of a yearbook adds a great deal to the "life" of a school. It gives many pupils an opportunity to contribute time and effort, and then it rewards them with the satisfaction that comes from sharing a success. It strengthens worthwhile tradition and motivates scholastic achievement. It helps to make a good school a better school. Therefore I wish to congratulate the yearbook staff on the publication of "Blue and White, 1962", and, on behalf of the school, thank them for their effort. The senior members of the executive, particularly, and the staff advisor are to be complimented on this worthy addition to the long line of "Blue and White" publications.

WELCOME BACK

Welcome back to Walkerville Collegiate, Miss Allison. A former graduate of W.C.I., she went on to study at the University of Western Ontario and Ontario College of Education. Miss Allison teaches Social Studies and Physical Education. She also did an excellent job coaching the girls' basketball and track teams.

Mr. Altmeyer and Mr. Thomas came to us from England. The former attended the University of Wales, the latter, Sheffield University. They are both doing post graduate work at Wayne State University. Mr. Altmeyer teaches Latin, French and Social Studies, while Mr. Thomas teaches French and English.

EDITORIAL

"DOING LITTLE THINGS WELL IS A STEP TOWARD DOING BIG THINGS BETTER"

A yearbook is comprised of many little things—a photograph, an article, an advertisement. Each in itself may seem insignificant to the reader, but to the person who took that picture, wrote that article, sold that advertisement, it is an accomplishment. If the picture was well-taken, the article well-written, the advertisement well-sold, it is an accomplishment worthy of pride. If the picture was blurred, the article boring, the advertisement smaller than it should have been, it is an accomplishment to learn from.

From cover to cover, the Blue and White is full of such accomplishments. Each one represents a few minutes' work of one person. This person is learning to do little things well.

We hope that those who have contributed to the 1962 Blue and White will take the step that leads them to do big things better.

Our yearbook advisor, Mr. Haggert, with sound advice and good guidance, has accompanied us throughout the year's work. Without his advice and guidance we would be in a very sorry state indeed.

Our capable advertising manager, Rick Pillsworth, deserves special praise for his successful efforts to expand our income.

To everyone who worked for the yearbook this year go thanks for his work, for without him there would be no Blue and White.

To the graduating class go our best wishes for success in the future. May this yearbook help you remember your days at Walkerville.

To our readers goes the wish that you may enjoy this magazine more every time you read it.

AGORA

AGORA

The extra curricular activities of Walkerville are directed by the athletic association and clubs which represent specific interests. The Agora correlates the different activities and deals with matters of general interest. The activities this year have been varied and interesting.

Soon after the start of the school year, the Agora got under way and held a very successful GET-ACQUAINTED DANCE.

The Hallowe'en Dance brought out more witches and ghosts than usual and was fun for everyone.

In the fall the monitor system in the cafeteria was renewed. This has taken the load of discipline off the teachers and has improved behavior during the lunch hour.

Dave Lawson and his social committee worked hard to prepare the annual Gamblers' Gambol. Janet Fisher and the Art Club helped a great deal to make this dance a success.

Dave has also convened the noon dances which were held this year for the support of our foster child, Constantine Andruopolus of Greece.

Under the capable direction of John Smith, our vice-president, the Graduation dance was a memorable occasion for the many graduates and students who attended.

This year we have had many varied assemblies. The new system whereby three or four classes put on an assembly together, has worked out very well.

The Honour Society this year has many new members who are recognized for their scholastic and athletic and other extra-curricular contributions to the school.

Many students turned out at the annual Activities Night held during Easter Holidays with a sock hop after the swimming and basketball games. Plans are under way for the adoption of school uniforms for the girls. We also hope to have a record to support the Year Book. It will have recordings of such school activities as the orchestra and public speaking winners.

I am most grateful to Mr. Brown and Mr. Burr for their advice and guidance, to the three convenors: Lynne Craig, Bill Moodrey and Dave Lawson and the entire executive for their ideas and tremendous co-operation.

Thanks go to the secretaries Zilda and Shirley.

To all the students who co-operated in making the 1961-62 year such a success MANY THANKS.

Girls' Doubles.

BADMINTON

1961-'62 FOOTBALL

This year the "Big Blue" had a very successful season. Through the regular schedule we rolled to four victories and two defeats which qualified the powerful Tartans for the playoffs. After a week of intense preparation on the field and a bonfire rally on the campus, we beat Corpus Christi in the semi-finals. The following week we played Patterson for the city championship but ran up against an inspired team and lost by a twenty-to-one score.

Several players, John Smith, Wayne Wright, Bob Punga, Bill Gala, "Killer" Kilpatrick, D'arcy Van Nest, Art Stoyshin, and Frank Ilijanic turned in great seasons and for their fine play Art Stoyshin, Frank Ilijanic and "Killer" were named to the All-City team. Although many seasoned veterans are leaving next year, Gerry Kwapisz, Ron David, John Cmar, Ron "the bull" Shulgan and others will be back to insure the "Big Blue" of another respectable season.

Many thanks must be given to Mr. Karcz, Mr. Marchini, Mr. Dodson, and Dr. MacLeod for their unselfish giving of time and excellent coaching.

THE SCHOOL GOLF TEAM

In the fall many of the boys of Walkerville head to the golf courses after school with Mr. Saffran to qualify for the golf team. The five low qualifiers are then put on the team to compete in the inter-school golf tournament. This year's participants were Bob Sneddon, Mike Nenadovich, Earl Dafoe, Bob Meredith and Wayne Henderson. The team finished fourth in a field of eight schools in the tournament. It was a young team consisting of mostly grade elevens and twelves and with the younger players coming up we should be able to put a top running team in the tournament within the next year or two.

SOCCER

This year's soccer team completed the regular season in fourth place, one point ahead of Patterson. They finished with three wins, from Massey, Lowe, and Commerce, two losses, to Kennedy and Patterson, and a tie with Herman.

This is the third year the boys have been kept out of the finals, but they look forward to more success next year. The team was ably coached by Mr. William Young, who hopes a few more boys will participate next season.

JUNIOR BOYS' BASKETBALL

The junior team met with success again this year and extended coach Karcz's winning streak to 47 regular and playoff games. The juniors captured the W.S.S.A. and W.O.S.S.A. crowns handily for the fourth year in a row defeating Kennedy Juniors and London Beck (39-20). Thanks are to be extended to Mr. Karcz and to Willie Palko. A fine first string led by Bruce Goodbrand, "Scoop" Elcombe, Willie Malach, Bob Stuart, and Captain Don Brown was supplemented by a strong second string of Ron Shulgan, Charlie Clark, Doug Stewart, Richard Liddell and Joe Zipparoni. Best wishes go to Mr. Karcz for next season. Returning next year will be: John "Scoop" Elcombe, Bruce Goodbrand, Bob Stuart, Charlie Clark, Cam Innis, and other talented young players.

SENIOR BOYS' BASKETBALL

This season, the senior boys' team failed to qualify for the W.S.S.A. Playoffs. The Tartans' campaign should not be termed a failure, however, as the four losses they suffered were each by two points, except our loss to Kennedy by three points. This year's quintet was captained by Bill Gala and Ron David.

Our games were highlighted by the ball-handling of Ron David, the rebounding and fast-breaking of Bill Gala, and the consistent scoring of John Zdrahal.

Next year will see the same team returning to the courts, the only exception being Bill Gala.

The senior boys' team would like to give their thanks for the students' loyal support.

WALKERVILLE CURLING TEAM

The members of this year's team were Bryan Keen, Bob MacLeod, Cam Innes, and Ed Kuntz. The team travelled to the W.O.S.S.A. tournament in Stratford on February 23, but unfortunately lost to a team from Wingham.

education for leadership

Collège Militaire Royal de Saint-Jean,
Saint-Jean, P.Q.

Royal Roads, Victoria, B.C.

Royal Military College of Canada
Kingston, Ontario.

A strong sense of duty, readiness to accept responsibility and the ability to lead . . . are some of the qualities required of an officer in Canada's Armed Forces. The development of these leadership qualities in this modern age demands the best in education and training.

The Department of National Defence will sponsor, through the Regular Officer Training Plan (ROTP), a selected number of qualified high school graduates to obtain an education through the Canadian Services

Colleges or through most Canadian universities, leading to a university degree and the Queen's Commission. This training prepares cadets for a career as officers in their chosen service, the Royal Canadian Navy, the Canadian Army or the Royal Canadian Air Force.

There is also a limited entry for those who would choose to obtain higher education at the Canadian Services Colleges at their own expense, and serve after graduation as officers in active components of the Reserve forces.

ROTP

Full details concerning the Regular Officer Training Plan, or entry into the Canadian Services Colleges, as a Reserve cadet, can be obtained without obligation from your nearest Canadian Armed Forces Recruiting Centre or by writing to the Director ROTP, Department of National Defence, Ottawa, Ontario. Closing date for candidates applying for 1962 FALL CLASSES is 1 July, 1962.

NEWS

TO THE INSTRUCTORS, OFFICERS, AND CADETS OF THE W.C.I. CADET CORPS

In these days of world tension, it is not hard to realize the importance of the Armed Forces in Canada. Being prepared, is still the safest way of keeping the enemy away from one's doorstep. But how many of us think of cadet training as anything more than monotonous routine that must be followed in school? I believe that a knowledge of the history of the cadet movement will arouse more pride and self-assurance in the young men of Walkerville Collegiate.

The Militia Bill of 1862 authorized "Associations for the Purpose of Drill." These Associations were composed of Professors, Masters and pupils of Universities, Schools and other public institutions. In the schools, these Associations were the beginnings of the present Royal Canadian Army Cadet Corps. The designation "Cadet Corps" replaced that of "Drill Associations" in 1898.

In 1909, Lord Strathcona, who was at that time High Commissioner for Canada in Great Britain, became interested in promoting cadet training in Canadian schools. His views and proposals became the basis for the Constitution of the Strathcona Trust, an important factor in the development of cadet training in Canada.

The aims of the Strathcona Trust were not designed to be used to introduce a system of compulsory military training, but to foster military drill and rifle shooting, to teach patriotism and that the first duty of a free citizen is to prepare to defend his country.

From the year 1912 until the end of the War 1914-1918, the cadet movement in Canada thrived. At the close of 1918 there were over 64,000 cadets enrolled, and upwards of 40,000 ex-cadets had voluntarily enlisted to serve their country in the war just ended.

In 1942 the title "Royal" was conferred by His Majesty King George VI and the designation Royal Canadian Army Cadets.

During the period 1942-1945 there were 124,000 voluntary enlistments of former Army Cadets in the Navy, Army, Air Force and Merchant Marine of Canada.

In 1948 new regulations established a closer control between the army and cadets generally. The training of cadets was closely allied to the requirements for the Canadian Army (Militia).

The history of the Cadet Movement in Canada is still being made. The present generation of cadets is witnessing changes that will be recorded in history.

Thank you for your wonderful co-operation and I know that everyone is proud of his present Cadet Corps.

1086, WALKERVILLE COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE CADET OFFICERS

The commanding officer of our Battalion is Cadet Lt/Col. John Torau, his 2/C Cadet Major John Smith and the Adjutant is Wayne Beneteau.

The officers are looking toward the first of May when they can present their girl friends at the Military Ball. The Military Ball is preceded by the annual Mess Dinner.

At present all the officers are interested in making the Inspection and Military Ball a big success.

JUNIOR AND SENIOR N.C.O.'s

The sound of marching and the voice of command have predominated in the halls each Wednesday night when the officers taught basic army drill and the prerequisites of leadership to the interested Grade 9 or 10 boys. We will be looking for them on inspection night.

FIRST AID

Under the able direction of Mr. Young, cadets from our school have been trained in elementary first aid. The classes have taken place in Room 228 each Thursday at 3:30 and we hope many others will avail themselves of this course next year.

PIPE BAND

This year's Pipe Band continues to uphold its tradition as one of the most colourful marching units of the Walkerville Collegiate Cadet Corps. Guided by the true and faithful training of Jock Copeland, M.B.E., it weaves new members into its ranks to compensate for the loss of boys through graduation.

Both drummers and pipers are practising for the coming inspection and they will present, as always, an outstanding performance for a band of its size and experience.

CADET INSPECTION 1961

Last year, as always, our cadet inspection was a great success under the command of Cadet Lt./Col. G. Service and his fellow officers. Congratulations should be given to Mr. Allison for his much needed instruction and also to the other instructors.

Different from other years were the exercises done in a body and also the rifle calisthenics. The Trumpet and Pipe Bands also excelled in their playing. The First Aid Squad, the Signal Corps, the Officers, and the other ranks all deserve the congratulations of their school.

The inspecting officer was Lt./Col. J. A. Baxter, C.D. of the Essex and Kent Scottish, who greatly praised our corps.

Walkerville Collegiate Institute students should be proud of their cadet corps.

PUBLIC SPEAKING

Congratulations to all those students who spent a great amount of time preparing, learning and polishing their speeches. The speeches were of a very high calibre this year. In the senior school the two winners were Brian Spooner and Diane Walker. Brian entertained the audiences with an interesting and original speech on "Nothing." He went on to win in the Eastern Division of the city. Diane spoke on "The Evil Tree, Communism" and came second in the Eastern City Division.

The junior winners were Cath Meanwell and Kim Graybiel, both grade 9 students. Cath spoke on "Mental Telepathy" and Kim on "The Last Days of Pompeii." Each captured their audiences with their speeches. Kim won in the Eastern City Division and Cath came second.

We are very pleased with the results of this year's contest, and are proud of our winners. We are proud of Bill Meloche who did so well in the Industrial Accident Prevention Contest speaking contest. Congratulations Bill!

Let's try to increase the number of entries in the contest next year—especially in the senior school.

SCIENCE CLUB

Under the direction of Mr. Sparling the Science Club was very active this year.

The members went on interesting tours through the Dominion Forge Company, the Filtration Plant, and the Engineering Department of the Essex College which all proved educational as well as enjoyable.

On various occasions films were shown and the new lab was available for experiments.

The club members welcome anyone who is interested in Science to join next year.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

This year Walkerville Photography has expanded its membership to include as many as twelve people (of which many are fine artists with the camera).

Steve Kasun was our President, Bob Snayko our Vice-President; the Treasurer was Bill Moodrey and Sherry Meloche was Secretary. This executive along with the members called a meeting almost every Wednesday. Here with advice from an expert Photographer, Mr. McLeod, and from Steve we were able to learn the essentials of the camera, as well as the developing technique.

All in all it can be said that we had a successful year (despite the lock failure on the door).

For a project we snapped pictures at the Gamblers' Gambol Prom. The pictures were in colour and, except for one bad shot, were appreciated by everyone.

We must extend our thanks to the Agora for giving us the privilege of supervising the pop sales at the Friday night dances.

PEP CLUB

The Pep Club, whose duty is to promote school spirit, was quite successful this year. Posters were hung in the halls to attract students to the games.

This year the Pep Club sold school buttons and Walkerville pennants. The money from the sale of buttons and pennants was used to purchase the W's for the cheerleaders' sweaters.

This year's executive consisted of Louise Gaskin, Allison Sprague, Sarah Finch and Pam Milburn. Mrs. Lawson was our sponsor teacher.

The executive of the Red Cross Club this year was: President—Leslie Lavery; Vice-President—Libby Havelock; Secretary—Sue Maughan; Treasurer—Sandra Sutherland.

Although the club started late in the term, the members have been very busy. Swabs are being made for the Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic and the Lost and Found is operating well, thanks to Miss Skelly's help. Miss Skelly is our sponsor and we have appreciated her giving us so much of her time. A basketball game to raise funds is being planned. Our present membership is thirteen—new members are always welcome. This summer, we hope to send a member to the Ontario Red Cross Camp.

The Red Cross Club is a worthy organization and everyone should be proud to be a member.

THE ART CLUB

The Art Club has had a very successful year, and a fair-sized group regularly attends the Tuesday afternoon meetings. The members have been busy during the first and second terms making and putting up posters and decorations for the games and dances. The Gamblers' Gambol decorations were very effective, and we hope that those for the Military Ball in May will be even better than last year's. Later this year we hope to do some sketching and silk-screening. The executive of the Art Club for 1961-'62 consisted of Janet Fisher, president; Warren Ritchie, vice-president; Holly Lamberton, secretary; and Doug Ferguson, treasurer and supplies officer.

JUNIOR ACHIEVEMENT

Again this year Junior Achievement has taken students from Walkerville as well as most of the other High Schools, to form miniature companies each evening from Monday to Thursday for two hours. This year two new service companies, J.A.S.P.R., a radio company that broadcasts on C.J.S.P. Saturday mornings, and J.A. CAMCO, a camera company that is sponsored by Bud Bezaire, raised the number of miniature companies to twenty-two. There are going to be two Company of the Year awards: one for the Service Company of the Year, and the other for Production Company of the Year. Unfortunately the winners of these, and other awards have not been decided yet, but they will be announced at the Future Unlimited Banquet, early in May.

I.S.C.F.

The Inter-School Christian Fellowship group meets each Thursday at 3:30 p.m. in Room 211. An enjoyable hour is spent each week in the study of various topics. Occasionally there are special speakers, skits or discussions of the problems that confront the teenager of to-day.

During the year there are a number of attractive social gatherings with groups from the other schools. Such features as skating parties, squashes, week-end camps, are arranged. A cordial invitation is extended to all who care to attend our group.

CHESS CLUB

This year the chess club was started under the direction of Mr. Burr. After a few weeks of practice, the Chess Club selected Roland Christen, 12A president for this year. In the middle of March, the Chess Club was challenged by the Herman Chess Club, and a week later they met in the library. The Chess Club is hoping to have a return match with Herman some time soon.

SOCIAL EVENTS

On September 5th, 1961, the students of Walkerville Collegiate once again crowded the corridors, beginning another year of excitement, good times, and, most of all, hard work. The past two months of leisure and fun were the main topic of conversation for the first few weeks.

Initiations were a little more colourful this year for the Grade Niners. It looks as though Walkerville has started another Tartan tradition in that the recitation of a page in the Informer has become the grueling duty of the Grade Nine students during the second week of classes. If the freshmen failed to comply with the strict Grade Thirteen standards, they had to do everything from pushing beans along a line to wearing their blouses and shirts backwards. Many of the new young boys at Walkerville looked very amusing wearing lipstick to their classes. The official initiations came to a conclusion and the social season began with the annual "Get Acquainted Dance" held in the school gymnasium. This sock hop was well attended by the newcomers since they gained precedence over the seniors and—paid—a greatly reduced admission fee.

During October, a successful sock hop, sponsored by the Pep Club, was attended by a huge crowd. The Agora then sponsored its annual Hallowe'en Dance. Witches, goblins, ghosts, and spooks of all shapes and sizes gave it an appropriate atmosphere. Proceeds of the dance went to UNICEF, and Ronnie and the Vibratones were a special attraction.

The football season was a very exciting one at Walkerville this year, and dances and parties followed many of the games. Two pep rallies complete with bonfires were held on the school campus, arousing tension and determination for the playoff games. The spirit of the school was rallied to its highest height in many years as the last ounce of Walkerville determination failed to gain the trophy. For the first time in eighteen years it looked as if "Big Blue" might have been victors, but upholding their tradition of the past two decades, they again ceded to the fates. On November 10th, the annual Gamblers' Gambol was held, bringing the autumn social season to a climax. After attending the decisive football game against Patterson on the same night, many couples danced to the soft strains of Wally Townsend and his orchestra, and then went on to parties held at the homes of several students.

Exams having been concluded, the social events recommenced as the students still awaited the examination results. On December 15th during lunch hour, the first tea dance was held. The Agora sponsored it and the money raised went to the school's foster child, Constantine, in Greece. The basketball season began and soon the Christmas holidays arrived.

Homecoming for the graduates was highlighted with their well-deserved diplomas at graduation. On December 22nd, the graduation exercises were attended by Grade 12 and 13 graduates, parents, teachers, and friends, who filled the auditorium to its utmost capacity. An enlightening Valedictorian address by Marten Brodsky and a comical class history by Andy Weiss were thoroughly enjoyed by the audience. Following the ceremonies, refreshments were served in the cafeteria and dancing was held in the gymnasium.

The Christmas holidays were one entire whirlwind of social events, but it soon had to end as the students returned to begin the second term on January 3rd.

During January and February, the basketball games proved to be quite entertaining, as sock hops were held in the gym after all home games to celebrate the victories. A couple of these were sponsored by the B.A.A. and the G.A.A. The Agora presented its annual Red Feather Dance. Again the admission fee was determined by the person's weight; this seems to have become another Tartan tradition. Several more tea dances took place during noon hours on Fridays. At one many couples competed in twisting their way to victory in a "twist" contest.

After examinations, the social events were again resumed. The "Blue and White" held its annual dance on March 23rd. Many turned out to it, especially since it was emceed by Bud Davies. The orchestra sponsored a successful dance and an "Activities Night" of swimming, basketball, badminton, and dancing rounded up the informal social season.

Before and after the Easter holidays, the girls were putting on their best behaviour in hope of being asked to the grand finale of society at Walkerville, the Military Ball, to be held early in May. As usual, the decorations and enjoyable music will combine to make the prom a great success. At last year's Military Ball, the gymnasium was transformed into a blue and white fantasy as the grand march opened with the appearance of C/Lt.-Col. George Service and his lady, Jo-Anne Gillespie. The cadets were magnificent in their Tartan kilts and their ladies were radiant in their evening dresses. Wally Townsend added his personal touch to the occasion.

This has been a wonderful year at Walkerville and one that will not be soon forgotten. But, as always, with every passing year, there will be those who must say goodbye to Walkerville forever. However, they will not forget her, but will invariably keep with them the fond memories of our beloved school.

RAIN AT NIGHT

Those who listen to rain at night, close under a roof, are presented with a special gift. They are singled out as sensitive people to whom the rain pours out its message of life.

It comes slowly at first, hesitantly, for it wants to sound you out, to be sure that you are interested and will receive it well. Soft, irregular drops of rain tap shyly, asking you to listen. They are teaching the value of modesty and patience. Then come the drummers. They beat steadily, methodically, and then, like a fanfare the sound rises in tempo. Like big hard bullets they pound down, faster and faster, building up excitement. With a last triumphant, furious fling they crash down, seeming to split the roof.

They have been the announcers, not caring about themselves but anxious to present others in a good light. Now the rain itself comes; singing sorrowfully, it rises and falls in waves, sighing about the cares and tribulations of a harsh life. But it knows its purpose. It realizes the toils of life and sheds large tears, but they are soft, tender, for this rain has come to heal, to lull the heavy heart, to wash away man's frowning features.

THE ORDEAL

The sun rose on the dawn of the tenth day. For the trio of explorers whose airplane had crashed in the middle of the desert ten days prior, it meant another day of hardship—another day of struggle against nature for their lives. One of them, a navigator, had calculated that the site of the plane crash was approximately 170 miles from the nearest river. Thus, for nine days in the face of almost insurmountable odds, they had trudged across that arid waste, travelling by night, resting by day. But the elements were taking their toll. All but the last ounce of fight had been drained from them; only the will to live had kept them going.

That desert, the scene of a desperate battle against the forces of nature, was the most God-forsaken place on earth. To those three men it was surely worse than the land that He gave to Cain. Miles of burning sand stretched as far as the eye could see—to the north, to the south, to the east, to the west—and above loomed the coppery sun in a fiery sky which could sap the life from any living creature. All too frequent were numerous dust storms, like the one which had just recently blinded one of the trio. Save for them, the desert held no life of any kind (not even buzzards—the ravenous scavengers of most such wildernesses and wastes); it never had, never could, and never would. In every direction except one lay desolation, barrenness, hell, and death, but in that one lay life. In that direction was the river, and towards it the three plodded.

As they unsteadily but doggedly staggered forward, one solitary thought passed through their minds: "Twenty-four more hours—twenty-four hours is all we can last!" For the past day they had been living on determination alone; their water was gone, their strength was all but gone, and their will to survive was going fast. Hoping the river was only several hours away, they had decided to continue their trek during the day instead of resting, but disaster had struck. One was sand-blinded and was all but being dragged along; the second was unconscious and being carried by the third who, now considerably weakened, Swishing through the trees, the water pattered lightly on the roof, telling you that there is a gay frivolous side to life. As it trickles gently over the edge of the roof, plops quietly on the ground, and is folded into the arms of an embracing earth, it teaches submission and obedience.

Lastly comes the older and wiser rain. It is weak but it falls maternally on the roof, sweetly comforting. This rain has experienced all the previous storms and has heeded their messages wisely. She sums them up, reminding us of their importance. Beating and then caressing, she murmurs soft admonitions in the hearer's ear. But she also tells us to appreciate beauty—the beauty of sound. Singing softly through the trees she falls upon the shingle and then trickles melodiously across the roof.

Each drop of rain has a special sound—some dash boldly, calling you to action, others slide softly, telling you to be patient, but they all unite together in a soothing but joyous ripple, showing that life in spite of its cares is a full and rewarding experience.

ELIZABETH MEANWELL, 13B

could not travel another mile bearing a triple burden. Time was running out.

By now, the fiery sun had reached the zenith. The scorching noonday heat was overpowering and unbearable. Of the two agonies, sitting down was by far much worse than walking. The men knew this and kept moving. The leader of the trio, his strength all but gone, gasped to his temporarily blinded partner, "I'm going to count to a thousand, and then I'll have to stop." Trying to make each number a step forward, he closed his eyes, grit his teeth, and trudged on, carrying one unconscious man and dragging the other, now semi-conscious. "One-two-three-four-five . . ." It was not important what direction he took, only that he walk those thousand paces. ". . . seven hundred fifty-nine—seven hundred sixty—seven hundred sixty-one . . ."

Feeling himself climbing a small rise in the sand, the man involuntarily opened his eyes. Ten feet away glimmered the bright blue surface of the river.

ON CONFORMITY

To see a sheep disperse and leave the flock
To forage, aimlessly, but on his own;
To turn his back on bigot and the talk,
That in this day and age is so well-known.
To watch a lamb escape the drifting fold
To wander on his own and reach a goal,
And damn the fool considering him bold;
(He breaks away to satisfy the soul).
To see the shepherd now and then defied
To gratify an unfulfilled desire;
And then to face his wrath and not to hide,
And so to keep his license while the others mire.

So few achieve a rank among the crowd,
And larger grows the herd beneath the shroud.

WAYNE POHLMAN, 13C

THE STORM

The storm broke out in all its fury. It rushed in like an enraged knight dressed in black armour. The cloud threw lightning bolts and coughed out tremendous noises, which made me think of the fourth of July. It dropped huge bombs of rain from the heavens, and anyone caught in this rain, I am sure, would have been drenched within a mere ten seconds. The wind was howling like a pack of wolves and the rain drops seemed to be dancing on the street. You could hear the drops creating music on the roof, and see the trees dancing in the wind, and then, just as quickly as it had come, it all died down. The rain no longer continued to dance, the lightning made no more noises, the thunder was subdued, and the music of the rain drops and dancing of the trees could no longer be heard or seen. All that you could see now were the ruins of the battle. The trademark of the storm, puddles of water, could be seen everywhere in the city.

AN IDEAL HOLIDAY

An ideal holiday for me would be a canoe trip through a rapids. You do not notice at first that the stream-lined silver canoe under you is gaining greater speed on this twisting, snake-like river. But then, as a cluster of bent dew-shrouded birch trees on the bank fairly flies by, and the rippling cool water turns from a deep azure blue to a wild, mad white, the whole world seems to terrifyingly scream RAPIDS! Already, the forest-lined shore is changed from a friendly pebbly beach to towering granite cliffs, forcing you to run the exciting gauntlet spread before you in a panorama of beauty and death all mixed and incomprehensible. With stinging spray in your squinting reddened eyes, and jagged, black, menacing rocks and boulders all around you tossing their heads triumphantly against the equally wild water, you madly paddle back-breakingly, first to left and then to right. The world seems to have changed to an insane witch's cauldron and your trust lies in the slender now-battered coracle beneath you, dodging shafts of rocky death like a living, breathing thing. And then, as if it had been a crazy nightmare behind you the once-again rich blue waters become slower and the pebbly, forest-lined, lichen-garbed beaches return.

Junior Poetry MIGRATION

Far, far up in the endless blue,
A graceful bird on strong wings flew,
Continuing her determined flight
Through sun or snow, through day or night.
Winter had gone and spring had come;
The soft spring winds their songs did hum,
And deep within her tiny breast
She felt an urge to fly to nest.
Deep in the forest she raised her brood,
Always alert to their every mood,
Protecting them against the foe,
And teaching them the wilds to know.
But soon the cold did fill the air;
The fledglings left their mother's care,
And on a brisk October day
The southbound winds called her away.

THE ART OF NATURE

On the mountain top I stand
And look across the quiet land.
To my right, the balmy sea
Stretched as far as I could see.
On the horizon I could see,
Bearing a cargo of wood and tea,
A ship from far away Ceylon,
It was there, but now it's gone.
To my left the mountains lie,
Their tops reaching to the sky,
On the mountain sides, the trees
Sway very gently in the breeze.
In the valley a small creek flows,
Coming from the mountain snows.
On its banks, the willow-trees
And flowers buzz within honey-bees.
What a lovely scene I saw,
Nature's art without a flaw.
How I wish that I could draw
And help you see the scene I saw.

EXCHANGE

Every year the Blue and White is exchanged for yearbooks which we receive from other parts of Canada as well as England and Australia. A great many exceptionally good yearbooks were sent to us this year and the staff of the Blue and White wishes to thank these schools for their magazines and wish them continued success in future publications.

THE AQUILA of Sault Ste. Marie featured a well done Candid Photos section.

TRAFALGAR ECHOES carried a foreign literary section including French, Spanish and Latin.

THE AD ASTRA ANNUAL of Sarnia carried excellent and very complete graduation coverage.

THE COLLEGE TIMES of Upper Canada College compiled an extensive literary section.

OVERTONES of the Barrie District Central Collegiate had a French page entitled "Un Peu de Français" and good coverage of assemblies and activities.

THE PEGASUS of Vincent Massey also contained well done and amusing Candid Photos.

THE SAGITTARIUS of Aden Bowman Collegiate displayed a very interesting and different cover.

JOKES

Patriotism: Taking your arm from around your girl to clap for the U.S. Cavalry as it gallops across the movie screen.

The boy who drives fast past a school is usually the one who was slow going through it.

Wife to husband—"I scratched the front fender a little—if you want to look at it, it's in the back seat."

Shoe department manager to customer: "Yes, we have quite a selection of loafers, I'll see if I can get one to wait on you."

The doctor came out of the bedroom to the anxious girl friend. "Frankly," he said, "I don't like the way he looks at all."

"I don't either, Doc," replied the girl friend, "but he's got a car."

"Whisper these three words that make one walk on air." "Go hang yourself."

"Oh, dear, I've missed you so much" ... and she raised the revolver and fired again.

"Darling," she sighed, "Couldn't you—couldn't you learn to love me?"

"I might," said the boy, "I learned to eat spinach."

Caller over the phone: "Is Nancy there?"

Mrs. Jones: "She's taking a bath."

Caller: "Sorry, I must have the wrong number."

"I'm sorry, but I'm saving this seat for ... sit right down, Miss."

He: "Mind if I turn off the hall light?"

She: "Not at all."

He: "The ceiling light?"

She: "Why of course."

He: "The floor lamp?"

She: "Yes, Johnny."

He: "Now that it's dark in here may I ask you a question?"

She: "Yes, Dear."

He: "Do you think this luminous dial watch is worth six dollars?"

One day early last autumn, the coach was running his football prospects through some stiff exercises, trying to get them into shape. The players were running at full steam around the edge of the practice field when one of them fell to the ground moaning in pain. The coach rushed up to him and said, "What's the matter with you? Why don't you get up?"

"I can't sir," gasped the boy. "I've broken my leg."

"Well, don't just lie there," barked the coach. "Do push-ups."

Mother: "Now, Willie, I want you to go in and get acquainted with the new nurse and give her a nice big kiss."

Willie Jr.: "Oh yeh, and get my face slapped like pa did?"

Jim Jones tells about his big brother who wanted to get married. His mother, however, was dead set against it:

"Why, you're just a baby," she said.

"But Ma," cried Bill, "I'm 35 years old!"

"Just the same," replied Ma firmly, "You wait until you finish high school."

A noted educator was entertaining a friend. Waiting for the main course at dinner the friend asked his host, "Will you pass the nuts, Professor?"

The professor replied, "Oh! I suppose so, but they should be flunked."

Grade Niner: "Please, Mom, may I go out tonight?"

Grade Ten: "May I go out? The show is over at 10 o'clock."

Grade Eleven: "I'm going out tonight."

Grade Twelve: "Goodnight folks, I'll bring in the milk."

1st Student: "Was her father surprised when you said you wanted to marry her?"

2nd Student: "Surprised. Why I thought the gun nearly fell out of his hand!"

Liz: "Oh, there's the place mother told me to stay away from. I thought we'd never find it."

Heh, the Grade Niners seem a little smaller
this year!

Investment and Opportunity

Canada needs young men and women of ambition and ability who want to build successful, worth-while careers. Money invested in education, particularly at the university level, offers this opportunity and gives Canada a high return.

Since it began six years ago, the General Motors Canadian Scholarship Programme has created opportunities for students who found lack of sufficient funds all that kept them from a university education. Twenty-five scholarships are awarded each year and, to the present, more than 200 students have received awards ranging in value to $2,000 a year.

The choice of one of 14 universities and of faculty rests entirely with the students and their advisors. The GM Scholarship Programme also provides grants to the universities themselves to help maintain and improve the quality of education.

The seven General Motors companies operating in Canada want to help deserving students develop their capabilities so that they can prepare for an important part in Canada's future.

It is an investment we like.

Applications for General Motors Scholarships should be directed to the Registrars of the following participating universities: The University of Toronto; the University of Western Ontario, London; Queen's University, Kingston; the University of Montreal; the University of Manitoba, Winnipeg; the University of British Columbia, Vancouver; the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon; the University of Alberta, Edmonton; Dalhousie University, Halifax; the University of New Brunswick, Fredericton; Laval University, Quebec City; McGill University, Montreal; Memorial University, St. John's, Newfoundland; and McMaster University, Hamilton.

EDUCATION

preparation for the work of life

Ford of Canada encourages young people in their search for education. Over the past 8 years, 46 university scholarships have been awarded to the sons and daughters of employees. The young men and women chosen may select any approved college or university in Canada. Ford of Canada also helps support a number of youth programs. Teaching aids and educational motion pictures are made available to Canadian schools. In addition, Ford of Canada Dealers in many communities participate in High School driver education projects. We are proud to be associated with many educational activities, because we believe that a sound education is the best preparation for the challenges and opportunities of the future.
