Reading, Writing,
Learning, Understanding, Communicating
Communication is an endless part of learning. The students and staff co-operate as they exchange ideas and opinions. This produces the happy and pleasant atmosphere found in the classroom.

Activities

 Daily at 3:20Throughout the year, students can be seen taking part in various activities. The Hostess Club, The Art Clụb, The Orchestra and Concert Band, The Light Opera Association - they're all part of the extracurricular program which allows students to communicate their talents to the school.

Communication

Between Mind and Body

No matter how outstanding an individual player is, he could never win without the support of the team. Communication between the team members and the spectators serves to uphold the spirit of the athete. This enthusism keys the mental attitude of the competitor so that he looks forward eagerly to a successful game.

Movies, Dances,  Assemblies, Field Trips. C'est la Vie!

During the school year, the student can experience more than just the usual contact of teacher and text. He can join clubs and organizations. He can participate in a wide range of sports. He can make friends. He can enjoy his spare time and relax in the student lounge. Student Life is communication.

To pass or not to pass?

That is a question!

A new bylaw soon to be passed in the city is going to insist that English be the standard language of instruction in most Windsor high schools. In most instances the bylaw will cause great confusion during the switchover period, estimated to take from two to five years. Students will have to give up their pigeon English for a more refined version of the language.

Fortunately the students at Walkerville should not be greatly affected due to the work already done by the English Department.

Mr. Bunt has been drilling his students with grammar. The level one students have been working so hard on their study of myths that some of them believe that passing is a myth

Mr . Gieswein can be seen handing out comic books during his developmental reading classes and taking in essays during his Creative Writing class. Mr. Gieswein declined to say which he enjoyed more.

With the additional choices of theatre arts and modern literature, Walkerville has one of the largest English programmes offered anywhere. Never let it be said that Walkerville students are a bunch of ungrammatical slobs!

French,Spanish,German,Latin-It's all Greek to me!

On December 15, 1965 John D. Walker III and $100,000 disappeared somewhere in Argentina.

On November 3, 1969, Norman Peabody was hijacked to Cuba while flying to Miami.
-Luckily for both men, they had taken Spanish in high school and were able to speak the language.

Another high school language scholar, whose name we can't divulge, is running spy missions in East Germany. Unfortunately he is not on our side but just the same he could never have gotten that high paying job if he hadn't taken German.

These are just a few of the many advantages that come from the Moderns Department. There are thirteen teachers who tried to make linguists of Walkerville students this year. With overhead projectors, and tape recorders they are preparing us for the day when we finally take the long awaited trip around the world. Here's hoping we're still young enough to enjoy it.

The French won the Battle of Waterloo! Although historians will disagree, Walkerville has proof of Wellington's defeat. The Battle of Waterloo was reenacted as part of the history program. The students organized into armies, planned strategies, made charts and launched a full scale battle.

Meanwhile the students have already taken over the history classes and the staff is holding conferences to discuss the development of new teaching techniques so that they may regain their places at the front of the classroom.

During 1837, teachers in Canada first forced students to teach classes, so that the teachers could recuperate from their strenuous activities during the Rebellion. The students, however, enjoyed this change in procedure as they now became the "guiding light" to their fellow classmates.

The teachers, wanting to resume their former places, were glad when a student was absent for then they could "take over" once more. They handed out assignments; analysis of documents and microfilm. This, they termed as the best method of learning true fact. The students will never again sit and memorize. They have learned to think, analyse, and work on their own. The teacher is now a referee and no longer a dictator.

Field studies supplement Geography courses

Who says the Geography staff have rocks in their heads? Alleged reports from Geography students tend to agree with the aforementioned hypothesis. This year the Geology 40 course was introduced. Such concrete evidence proves that in actual fact the staff have rocks on their minds as they try to provide a stimulating course for the students.

Geography classes study climatography. Unfortunately there seems to be a lack of skill in reading barometers as each day a field trip is planned precipitation invariably drenches the area. Students slosh through the mud, follow winding paths, slide down hills, and trip over fallen logs in heroic attempts to mark out a map. These field studies develop the students' powers of observation and deduction as well as preparing them for bootcamp if they ever go that far.

Topographic maps provide a challenge to students. These maps, with their squiggly rivers, overlapping contour lines, and brilliant colours help students to visualize the geographic land forms of foreign areas.

With this interesting and student-oriented program the Geography Department is aiming to deepen and broaden the student's understanding of the world he lives in.

Creative Arts - The talent department

In the home economics room Miss Haller consoles a student who has just burned her way to a failure. Worse yet, the poor child still has to clean up the mess. Meanwhile another student sobs as she rips apart all that morning's sewing, having just stitched the wrong sides together so that the seams are on the outside.

Across the hall Mr. Curry is working hard with a grade nine class. (God bless the poor man.) His music sensitive ears try to find the fumbling flute player who is hitting a B flat instead of a B natural.

On the third floor Mr. Wheeler and Mr. Tyler laugh to themselves and shake their heads as they try to appreciate some of the latest projects that naive students think they can pawn off as art.

Off in the shop Mr. Roberts waits patiently for the period to come to an end and silence to begin.

Mr. Weir stands over a drafting table and stares in disbelief at the lines and numbers that, when put together, supposedly form a plan of something.

Yes, Walkerville is full of students creating ... creating havoc ... creating noise ... creating turmoil ....

Phys. Ed. builds better bodies

The Phys. Ed. department consists of seven skilled P.E. teachers, two gymnasiums, two gym offices, a pool, a first aid kit, and one dungeon which is presently being used as a boy's changing room.

In the two gyms, the seven skilled teachers supervise students who are given a choice of taking volleyball, basketball, aerobics, gymnastics, soccer, or many other activities. Thanks to such thorough instruction injuries have been kept to a minimum in gym classes.

However there have been the usual cuts and scrapes sustained by clumsy students who dive into the pool and either hit bottom or collide with submerged icebergs. Senior students get great joy in yelling at level I students as they make their first attempt at...."The Park". The seniors already know about the strategically placed puddles and mudholes which make the run more hazardous.

Total injuries this year amounted to one broken arm, a wrenched wrist, a twisted ankle, a dislocated back, eight broken fingernails, and two badly rope-burned hands. Needless to say poor Melvin won't be back again this year.

Walkerville students are determined to become physically fit or die trying!

Math is fun???

Test your Math intelligence.
1.1 Miss Shillington has 34 puzzled Math B students and Mr. Dunn has 30 puzzled Math B students. Show graphically the number of students understanding Math B.
1.2 Factor the equation $4 x^{2}+4 x+1=0$.
1.3 For the hyperbola $16 x^{2}-9 y^{2}=112$ find the equation of the tangents with slope $\frac{-16}{9}$

Answers:
$1.1 \emptyset$
1.2 The factors are $2 \mathrm{x}+1,2 \mathrm{x}+1$. Additional factors to be considered.

1. Level 1 students have just learned to factor.
2. Level 4 students have completely forgotten how to factor.
3. Level 3 students are puzzling over trig ratios.
4. Math B students at this stage of the game haven't gotten over the trauma of being baffled by vectors.
5. That leaves Level 2 students who by now have solved the problem and gone on to number 3 .
1.3 All students who completely ignored this question showed rare intelligence.

CHEMISTRY + PHYSICS + BIOLOGY SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

Science is an ever-changing field of study and this year with the introduction of several new pieces of apparatus, the young scientist has an even greater chance of becoming completely baffled. Such mystifying equipment as ripple tanks, photoelectric colourimeters and chromatography apparatus can leave the student with a feeling of satisfaction if he ever learns to spell their names, let alone use them and understand the results.

There are about 1184 science students this year and in the early weeks of classes one might have thought that the science department was in complete chaos, having nearly as many instructors.

There are 13 different science courses being offered this year, but the teachers are overlooking the fact that this is an unlucky number and are encouraging student involvement by means of experimentation, hoping that the students will arrive at their own conclusions. The science department is attempting to bring about a search for understanding, to expose the students to logic (which in itself could be dangerous) and to teach them the skills of laboratory work.

Guidance Dept. still

solving students' problems

You say you're down on your luck and nothing is going right? And you flunked your Math B test, receiving the lowest grade in the class? And you were called to the office for skipping a class when you walked in late for French and had been marked absent? And you say you were absent for a half day with a bad cold and you came back just in time for a Geography seminar . . . which you were supposed to prepare . . . but forgot about? Do you have problems? Well, maybe the Guidance Department can help you.

Didn't Mrs. Lawson answer all your silly little questions about University Entrance Forms?

Didn't Mrs. Greenwood smile and give you all the assistance she could while you were waiting to talk to Mr. Wortley?

And don't forget the time Mrs. Strick and Mrs. Carey helped you with your course selection form by telling you what "prerequisite" meant.

And isn't the guidance office the second best place to do your homework (next to home) because of its quiet and pleasant atmosphere?

So next time you're down and out take two aspirin for your headache and stop in the Guidance office for some reassurance that life isn't all bad.

Mr. Wortley Mrs. Lawson

Mrs. Strick

Principal,Vice-Principal - Administrators of Education.

Just as all jobs need a foreman and all corporations need a president, a high school needs two "heavies" referred to as principal and vice-principal. Occasionally, other less complimentary names have been used behind their backs.

Regardless of the fact that these are the loneliest men next to Maytag repairmen, they carry on their daily chores and even manage to smile. These are the men who are forced to make decisions that turn some students against them for life and yet they still retain their sanity and greet all students with a cheerful hello when they enter the school.

Mr. Aitkin and Mr. Mallender are faced daily with problems of students and teachers and somehow must resolve them all. When confronted by an irate parent, they are sympathetic and must come up with a solution acceptable to all.

It is not easy being the administrators of a high school, but rumours that their offices are really padded cells from which they occasionally escape are absolutely false.

They make the school work, efficiently, effectively

The first annual presentåtion of the "Keeping Face" awards is about to get underway, but first a few words on these new awards which have been instituted this year. These awards are to be presented to those select few who, in the face of mounting odds, still manage to function normally and go about their chores cheerfully.

Our first category is "Holding the Fort SingleHandedly", and the winner of this much coveted award is Mrs. Greenwood for her stunning solo performance in the Guidance office. The Guidance secretary can be seen daily scheduling Guidance appointments or assisting students in finding Guidance materials. Congratulations Mrs. Greenwood.

Under the heading of "Best Performance by a Duet" the winners are Helen Naismith and Sophie Zawisza, who work in the cafeteria. This determined duo deserve recognition for their calmness when descended upon by an angry, screaming, fighting mob (also known as the student body during lunch hours). We can only say keep up the good work of maintaining a clean and well run cafeteria.
"Trusty Trios" is our third department of awards on our program and we ask that the Library and Resource Centre Staff step forward. Thanks to Mr. Cruickshank and Miss Houston the students have discovered that there is such a thing as the Sound of Silence. There is a lot more to the library besides books this year: records, film strips, and tapes must all be filed. If you're in need of a record player or tape recorder Mr. Demare can be counted on to lend a hand.

The "Forceful Foursome" is no less deserving of praise. Our quartet of secretaries are kept busy typing, filling out attendance cards and issuing admit and excuse slips. For managing to complete their work despite numerous interruptions from students (and coping with them all) we ask you to accept this award.

We conclude our program with our "Cast of Thousands Award". This we present to the maintenance staff. One would think it would take nearly a thousand workers to keep the school clean and well run. There is more work involved in the maintenance of a school than cleaning classrooms and sweeping halls. There is electrical work to be done, the lights must be kept shining, and the heat must be on. A commendable job is being done by all.

strict principles

The meeting opened with P.L. MacKenzie, our fearless leader, presiding on top of his orange crate. The hullabaloo was called to order and the hours were adopted as babbled.

COMMITTEE REPORTS:

The Assembly, Treasury and Publicity Committees reported that they had nothing to report.

Wes Trojand, honorary member of the newly formed Student Affairs Committee, reported that he had received the word-students WILL be allowed in the Student Lounge.

Due to the smashing success of the Jazzmen Dance, The Social Committee is now close to the $$ 00.00$ mark. They are contemplating another disaster similar to their fall exploit-The Crystal Castle, only on a smaller scale. However it is being debated whether or not there may be too much enthusiasm for a semi-formal. Attendance may subtract from the delicate intimacy of the "dirty dozen formal-goers". OLD BUSINESS:

VERY OLD BUSINESS:
The executive discussed changes in the dress code until someone pointed out that a third veto would result in instant abolition of this Body according to Article 5 of our revised constitution. The question was raised as to what difference it would make, however, this comment was ruled "Out of Order" as it hadn't been brought to the Inner Exec. meeting. NEW ? BUSINESS:

Mr. Fergusen delivered his annual "The Way To A Person's Pocket Is Through His Sweet Tooth and The Best Time Is Now, I Guarantee Success" talk, and then proceeded to hand out free samples to prove his point.

Rob Tomson and Clark Johnson immediately moved that the Agora sell these bars - unanimously carried -

At this point Vicey Machina informed the chair that this meeting was illegal as a quorum was lacking.

The meeting was then re-scheduled for two months from Monday.

This space is reserved for the G.A.A. B.A.A. headline

The G.A.A. and the B.A.A. have been very busy this year marshalling all the athletic honkey-tonkey which hides under the dignified title of Business. For the first time co-ed Intermural games were scheduled. The response was overwhelming, the only trouble being that the games the co-eds had in mind were censored by the powers-in-chief. Volleyball and Basketball were condescended upon. What a letdown!?!?

The girls set out to change the constitution and now instead of it being a high-faluting document which the students can't understand it is a high-faluting document which no one can understand.

The G.A.A. has taken on the responsibility of looking out for the welfare of Walkerville's feet. Considering that there are some 2,540 feet treading the halls of our school daily, the G.A.A. sees no reason why each foot shouldn't be clothed in a handsome Walkerville sweat sock. After all we have our Walkerville scarves, hats and "Yea Tartans!" buttons courtesy of endeavours by past Athletic Associations.

The two sponsor teachers, Miss Parkinson and Mr. Allison need to be thanked for the very difficult job they performed as prison guards and fire marshals. There were no escapes or fires.

Orchestra and Concert Band

The Midnight Hour

In the middle of the night, when all is dark, strange sounds and moans come from Mr. Curry's music room. As the light slowly rises in the east the moans stop and the sounds become more harmonious. These sounds are the music of the Orchestra and Concert Band! At 7:30, two mornings a week, Walkerville musicians stagger to school to play invigorating pieces of music from the "Russian Sailor Dance" to "Air for Orchestra". After a month or two of practising, the Orchestra and Concert Band perform. They help around the school by playing at the Graduation Ceremonies, Christmas and Remembrance Day assemblies. The Orchestra and Concert Band, with the help of Mr. Curry develops talented musicians, many of whom go on to play in the International Youth Concert or the Windsor Symphony Orchestra.

presents "My Fair Lady." By George we did it!

Cast, you are to stay here for the next six months learning to perform beautifully, like professionals in a broadway musical. If you're good and do whatever you're told, you shall go home at a decent hour and have a good night's rest. If you are naughty and idle, you will stay at school, rehearse for hours and be threatened by Mr. Curry with a baton. At the end of six months you shall perform to the public in lavish costumes on a sound set. If the adjudicator finds out that you are only high school students, you will be publicly ridiculed and commit theatrical suicide as a warning to other presumptuous high school productions. If you are not found out and give professional performances each night, you will be publicly praised and receive standing ovations.

Camera Club focuses on new developments

The repeated clicks heard all over the school are not caused by faulty heating or clumsy students dropping things but by the busy cameras of the Camera Club members. The lenses of their cameras are seen blinking everywhere from the quiet classroom to the rousing rehearsals of My Fair Lady. No activity is safe from these roving eyes which see and record the events of the school year. This year there are many more junior members snapping shots. There is much activity in the dark room (when the key can be found) and strips of negatives line the walls. The club president, Chris Tyler, was kept busy supplying pictures and excuses for the yearbook. A camera in its brown case began to be a permanent fixture on Leo Ostropolec as he hurried about the school with his long lists of pictures to be taken. The camera club members deserve much credit for the work they put out despite the fact that they were always running out of film, print paper, or time.

U.N and History Club faces the issues

Have you ever wanted to be U-Thant? Mitchel Sharp? Paul Martin? To live the thrills of making major world decisions? Neither have I, but many students have. They know the situations of power and trust in the world. They are interested in country policies and in understanding what happens and why. They try to solve existing problems and try to figure out what can be done to help.

There are usually one or two Model U.N. sessions during the year where delegates meet to debate on current world issues.

The U.N. Club is a growing organization. Become a delegate and let your dreams of becoming U-Thant come true.

Creativity

Let Loose

We all started out as avid finger-painters, but some of us moved on to oils and water colours while the rest were simply left with dried out fingers. Naturally these more talented artists belong to our Art Club. Although they tend to be somewhat camera-shy, they come out of themselves on paper creating the colourful displays seen around the school. They also specialized in snowballs this year, along with snowmen and ice-covered trees. Daring members scrambled up miles of scaffolding to hang the delicately constructed snowflakes which helped transform the gym into a "Crystal Castle" for this year's formal dance. Never again will the fingers of the Art Club be dipped in paint, for they are truly on to bigger and better things.

Are we in it? No, we're not;

We're not in it, we're on top!

The Cheerleaders must be a group of very hardy girls for they follow our football team through mud, snow, sleet, rain, boiling afternoons and freezing nights. They push through maddening crowds and sweltering heat at the basketball games. All this for the spirit of our teams, for the glory of our school, and the desire to tackle one of those beautiful boys for themselves!

Almost before the teams themselves arrive at the games, the Cheerleaders are on the scene, ready to encourage the players on to victory. Leaping and cartwheeling in front of the stands, the Cheerleaders begin their performance with an "All here, let's cheer!" As they launch into their routines they are joined by the crowds as they try to outshout the other schools. (what they're shouting is something else again)

In an effort to put more enthusiasm into the games, the Cheerleaders obtained new uniforms, new cheers and new members. The result has been an excellent cheering section at all the games.

White Tornado Knocks 'em DEAD!

Walkerville's White Tornado is almost as strong as Ajax cleanser. It has scoured many football fields clean of Clippers, Spartans and Mustangs. The only spot of grime the Tornado has not been able to clean is the ugly Green Griffins. Perhaps our White Tornado will gain in strength and be able to clean The Green Machine.

Early in the season, the Senior Football team grabbed the pigskin and held on to pass and run their way into the semi-finals where they bowed to Herman. Coaches Mr. Wortley and Mr. Miller demanded strong passing and got it from quarterbacks Cam Spooner and Dennis Hannon. The steady running plays of Frank Hadju, Al Lossing, and Marcel Marchand completed the offensive action of the team. This strong offense coupled with a powerful defensive line held off the opponents. The record of 4 wins, 2 losses, and placement of Marcel Marchand and Charlie Wright on the All Star Team is proof enough of their successful season.

The rain, snow and mud didn't deter the Junior Football team from their play one little bit. In fact the rainier or muddier it got, the more they enjoyed themselves. The ball crossed the goal line more times as a result of our players sliding through the opponents' legs than it did on clear days when they had to rely on their running and passing. Not that they didn't run and pass as well, it's just that they didn't have as much fun.

Mr. Halliday's "Little Fellows" might have looked small but once they were let loose on the field they used muscle and determination to oust their adversaries and come out victorious.

The gym echoes with the sound of swinging bodies, muffled groans and thudding feet as our expert gymnasts practise enthusiastically for their annual meet. In one corner the strains of a popular record can be faintly heard as the girls sway, leap and bound through a free exercise routine. The wind whistles wildly as a blueclad figure flies around the unevens. The floor watches patiently as team members skip lightly along the balance beam, waiting for another victim to fall. Rolling, jumping and flipping through the air, the gymnastics team dances their way through another successful year.

Dear Melvin,
Being a goalie on a hockey team is a hard job. Six people on skates are always swooping down on you trying to shove that little rubber puck into the net behind you, many times they miss the net and hit you. I used to think that there was no other goal-tending job as difficult (except water polo where there is always the possibility of drowning) but after playing goal in a soccer game against Walkerville, I changed my mind. Remember you used to tell me to move fast to any position where the ball was heading for? Well I moved so fast I ended up tripping myself and as for being where the ball was - I couldn't keep up with it. That Mike Roberts and Mario Spagnolio moved in on me so fast - it was unbelievable! You should see the rest of the team. Once they got hold of the ball we were helpless. They hit and kicked it with such precision that we didn't stand a chance. Say hello to everyone and I hope you feel better soon.

Alexander.

P.S.: It's too bad Walkerville's team didn't make the finals as then you could have seen them in action. They must have had an off day as during the rest of the season they were spectacular.

Basketball player; n.1.A competitive animal; 2.That variety of sportsman distinguished by its long legs and ability to make long leaping bounds. It snatches its quarry out of midair. He is a scavenger often stealing that which is intended for another. Scientists assign the name of interception to this characteristic trait. It possesses chameleon characteristics changing its colour from blue to white. Unusual speeds and the ability to pivot make him a creature of style and grace. It is native to the dry flat lands called gymnasiums. Feeds on oranges and water. The flock has a peculiar trait of ostracizing one from its midst. The loner, thus expelled is left to fend for himself. Usually travels in a flock of 5 in scattered formation. Related to the road runner and kangaroo; 3.A player of basketball?

This year no particular Senior Boys' Basketball team was a sure-tıre, runaway winner. Walkerville managed to keep pace with the top contenders to finish in the third playoff spot. Coached by Mr. Halliday, the boys practised long and hard to improve their passing and shooting skills. Bill Lozynsky and Bob Howison proved to be top point scorers but the rest of the team was close behind. It was this co-ordinated effort that gave the team strength and winning potential.

Girls pivot around opposition

Ever notice what fantastic shape and form our Senior Girls' Basketball team has? If you haven't just ask Randy or Bill or Leo; they'll know? The girls work hard running up and down the court, jumping, bending, stretching, using all their muscles and strength trying to win for their school. There are of course alternative reasons- like victory celebrations, the thrill of winning and keeping in that fantastic shape and form.

The girls didn't do badly this year at all, ending the season with a $7-2$ record. First place in the East won a bye in the quarters and a home game against Herman in the semis. Although the championship title was dropped to Forster, most people still consider them No. 1.

Juniors teeter on rim of success Freshmen strive to balance

Ever stand below a B-ball basket and look up? That rim is miles away! It practically disappears, fading out against the ceiling. Somehow you've got to get the ball that is in your hand into that basket. So valiantly you throw it. If you're lucky you sink it. If you get it in, the crowd cheers and you feel ten feet tall and you think, "Someday I can look at that basket at eye level and when I do I can join the Senior team". If you don't sink your shot, you continue running down the court still trying.

Co-captains Rob Bell and Chris Bryans led their team to a successful year with a 5-4 record at the close of the season.

Mr. Cruickshanks' Freshmen team practised hard early in the morning and put forth a good show but unfortunately they had a disappointing season.

Take 180 fingers, attach them to 18 people, divide by 2 and factor by 3 to arrive at 6 groups with 30 fingers each. Take half of these groups and place them on opposite sides of a gym floor bisected latitudinally by a high net. Place each group on one-third of each hemicourt. Acquire a ball approximately one semi-cubit in width, fill it with air and blow a whistle. What happens next is anyone's guess but they call it a Volleyball game!

The coaches of the Girls' Senior, Junior; and Boys' Senior teams were Miss Parkinson, Mrs. Perfect and Mr. Dunn respectively. The coaches worked almost as hard as the teams to reach the No. 1 spot. Unfortunately a few other teams had the same idea and we were generous enough to let them go first and we took second spot.

Come on in....the water's fine!

Long, slender and sleek, it cuts through the water like a knife. It often surfaces for air, only to return gracefully to the depths. Back and forth it glides smoothly from one end of the pool to the other, sometimes causing tiny ripples, sometimes splashing recklessly. At last it climbs onto the side, and the water slowly becomes still.

The swimming team is made up of many such "creatures" who practise faithfully in the cool green waves. With all the enthusiasm of true fish, the swimmers dive into relays and individual races, swimming backwards and butterflying the length of the pool. Front crawl and breast stroke also propel the team on to success.

Swoosh! Twamp! Thud! Twak!

If you ever happened to be so unlucky as to be at school at 7:15 A.M., you just might have seen the Badminton team in action, swinging racquets, twamping birdies and driving serves over the net. These devoted students bounce into school two mornings a week, wideeyed and energetic, ready to conquer the courts.

Meanwhile after school the sun is beating down and the air reverberates with the rythmic pound of bouncing tennis balls. The small, white spheres sail unerringly between the sturdy raquets of our Tennis team as they swing mightily and run madly over the courts. Renowned champions that they are, these players, with their accurate aim, move rapidly on to victory.

Who are these people that run through the halls, fly downstairs and go speeding by students after school? They are members of the Cross Country Team hard at work on their training program. When the warm weather was here they jogged around the park and when the snow and rain came they moved indoors. Their preparation proved successful as we saw them produce a champion team. Team members Scott Murray, Bob Brown, John Schertzer, Terry Burton and Al Lossing combined to take a first place finish in both W.S.S.A. and S.W.O.S.S.A. meets.

Faster than a speeding bullet. More powerful than a locomotive. Able to leap tall buildings in a single bound. Is it a bird? a plane? NO! It's the Walkerville Track Team.

The. 1969-70 Track season allowed our athletes to show their ability as they ran relays, individual races, competed in javelin and discus throwing, hurdling and high jump.

In Girls' Track two old records were thrown out as Anne Young and Barb Benson established new high jump records. In the W.S.S.A. meet, Laura Worby recorded a first place finish in the Senior 200 metre run and Rosemary Menyes placed first in the Junior Javelin. In W.S.S.A., out of 12 schools, our midgets placed 5th, our Juniors 3rd, and our Seniors 3rd. In S.W.O.S.S.A., 28 schools competed and the Midgets placed 6th, the Juniors 7th and the Seniors 2nd.

The Boys' Track Team finished fourth with Rob Bell, Dennis Hannon, Ian Boyd, Terry Burton, Bob Brown, Scott Murray and Jim Melitto doing an outstanding job.

Fore! and the golf season started with a good tee-off. Once on the green, the irons and woods sliced through the air and sent golf balls sailing towards holes in one. Team members Rob Bell, captain, Brad Walls, Greg Sovan, Greg Delorenzie and Dave Mlak sunk their putts to finish near the middle of the pack in the city tournament.

210 was the high average of this year's Bowling team. Although not all of the team members had averages this high, each bowler received his share of spares, strikes and gutterballs to contribute to a successful year's bowling.

Be Overthrown!

Competing in a second consecutive year of Wrestling, our Walkerville team is underway to a tremendous up-coming year. Having a newly developed coach, Mr. Kernot, makes success inevitable. He has coached his team through the "blood, sweat and tears" of training season and nearing the termination of the season, he should be the first to be congratulated on his unceasing efforts in the organization and training of the team. The team itself was made up of old and new members. Both showed to take on new skills which other wrestlers throughout Windsor and Essex have caught sight of. Individual standings place Jim Coulomb in second for the 87 pound category, Paul Levac, second and Pat Rondot, third.

"What do you mean we're $$ 100.00$ in the hole?"

Doesn't this yearbook remind you of your bedroom?

Mr. Chief Justice Mallender, I move that all charges of corruption, profanity and bad taste laid against my clients, the 1970-71 Blue and White staff, be dropped on the grounds of temporary insanity at the time in question.

I further move that they not only be freed in the custody of Mr. P. Gieswein, but also be congratulated and recognized as the true heroes that they are, to have endured the hardships of the seven days preceeding the final deadline.

First, the charge of bad taste is completely unfounded. They didn't have the slightest intention of hurting anyone! All that they proposed to do was to take those stale old write-ups and make them more interesting and amusing. Grad write-ups were, in the past, in bad taste. The yearbook staff showed rare intelligence and tact when they met the "lynch mob" from the "we want grad write-ups petition committee" and came to a fair compromise. Was it the yearbook staff's fault that only twelve level five students were interested in voting?

Finally the introduction of colour to the yearbook could only enhance it's appearance and in my opinion make it of better quality.

As to the charge of profanity, since when has "fuddle duddle" become a profane term? Consider, for a moment, the attitude of a yearbook staff who have found out they only have seven days left to complete sixty-two pages or suffer a fall delivery. It was a simple matter of survival that they worked until nine o'clock in room 305 those last few days; cursing, screaming, hairpulling. After all, would you like to tell twelve hundred crazed students that they won't get their yearbooks until September?

The charge of corruption is a simple case of misplacing one hundred dollars. I have been assured that the money will be deposited in their account as soon as Mr. Gieswein locates his other suit.

Finally, Your Honour, I move that the entire staff be placed in protective custody until this evidence can be made public, as I sincerely doubt that the staff and student body will ever believe a story like this.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS and APOLOGIES

It is not easy putting out a yearbook, particularly when you follow one like last years. One area where major renovations were necessary was the write-ups. As copy manager, Donna Wilson was responsible for editing all written material. Somehow we also conned her into writing much of it.

As everybody knows, the night before final deadline all the magic elves creep out of hiding and finish off all the work on the yearbook. Lynda Ashwell and Laurel Turner deserve special recognition for the hard work they accomplished in these last few hours.

The Blue and White staff would like to take time now to apologize to any misguided members of the student body who might feel offended by our wise, witty, honest, frank and haphazard articles, as we've all gone into hiding as of publishing date.

What would a photo album be without photographs? That said, I would like to thank Leo Ostropolec (who took and developed more than 200 photos in the last few weeks) and Chris Tyler.

Mr . Gieswein deserves something more than just thanks (just what, I wouldn't dare say) God knows he tried to keep us in line but we wouldn't have any of it. As advisor, he gave us guidance and his honest opinion, which we promptly ignored.
