In mid-April, 2010, 35 students departed for a whirlwind adventure around Europe. Sights included plenty of palaces, gardens, and places where the likes of Mozart and Haydn lived and played. The group went on the Sound of Music Tour throughout Salzburg, and saw art by famous painters such as Klimt, Vermeer, and Rembrandt. "It was an amazing experience!" said Keats Conlon, in grade 12 this year. Not only was this an amazing experience for the travel, but also because the students got the opportunity to perform in all three major cities they stopped at: Vienna, Salzburg, and Prague. Everyone performed, some playing percussion instruments, some with guitar, and some piano. The trip lasted 9 days long, which felt like way too fast for the students who were on the trip. Everyone had a blast, no matter the jetlag from coming home and no matter the homework incurred during their leave...

Beauty and the Beast

Walkerville pulled it off again; another fantastic production. Faster than you can say "be our guest," audiences were charmed by the amazing talent from the actors, the spectacular set design, and the fantastic backstage work.

But pulling off a play like Beauty and the Beast is no picnic. Hundreds of hours of auditioning, planning, rehearsing, sewing, painting, and goodness-knows-what-else went into the play this year.

The role of Belle went to Miranda MacDougall, who played the part like it was made for her. Nik Nikita starred alongside Miranda as the Beast, who was also incredible. And of course, Louie Calsavara played Gaston as if he'd been practising the part all his life.

pg 54

"Sometimes I get stressed, or I had a bad day or something, but then when I go to rehearsal, I remember why I love this school so much." says Lyssa Meloche. The cast and crew would also like to thank Mr. Nabben, Mrs. Gale, and the numerous parents who helped make the show possible.

FROSH

"Frosh was a lot more fun than I thought it would be. I met a lot of really great people that day, and made a few really good friends."
Cristian Aguilar, grade 9

Here's a question: What do Gandalf, a bunch of sailors, some dinosaurs, ninjas, and Hermione Granger all have in common? Besides all possibly belonging to a horrendous punch line (don't worry, there isn't one here), they were all teams for this year's frosh! The cheerleader team came out victorious with an incredible record of being undefeated, but everyone had an awesome time. And of course, since it was frosh, everyone also got soaked with water, pied in the face, and ended up with jello-filled toes. Luckily, it was all in good fun, and nobody got (seriously) injured. Plus, with everyone winning a medal and being fed, how could you not feel like a winner on frosh? That is until you try and comb out your hair afterward...

Halloween

What a better way to show off Walkerville pride than Halloween? This year, there weren't just witches and ghosts flooding the school hallways, but also Medusa, a group of Powerpuff Girls, a miniature Mr. Peli, and a large enough assortment of video game characters to make any gamer cry out in delight. A special thumbs up go to the teachers; most of the staff dressed up and even Mr. Ross, who dressed up as Clark Kent! There was also a Halloween assembly this year as, where some of the dance students performed Thriller. Videos were also shown and there was a costume competition (and there was some stiff competition!). Thanks to everyone who dressed up and helped out!

Walkerville Fashion Show

Fashion show was such a great experience. It was really empowering to walk a runway, and it was for such a great cause. Caita, Noelle, and Natalie did such a good job!

-Molly Deneau, grade 9

This year's fashion show was a student-lead event, ran by 3 grade 12 students: Nathalie Mero, Caita Clemerson, and Noelle Sorrell.

The event was also a fundraiser for the United Way. Held in Willistead park on a breezy day in May, the show couldn't have been more perfect.

Models wore both student lines and clothing from local businesses. Models included all grades from freshmen to seniors, and Community Living students were also involved, pulling model moves to rival any runway.

Between clothing lines, there were performances by some of the WCCA string ensemble, as well as some WCCA vocal students.

Everyone involved, from onlookers to models to helpers agreed that the event has been the most successful fashion show yet.

The Holding Room

Sears Fest 2010

The Holding Room was the Sears Fest play that surpassed everyone's expectations.

An original play written by Mr. Nabben, the show outlines Cathy James' (played by Veronica Baron and Miranda Mac Dougall) closure while cleaning out her dead daughter's bedroom. Cathy's daughter Vera James (played by Gabrielle Bleyendaal) was beaten to death by a group of her peers in an extreme and violent case of how far bullying can go.

The play was based on the real-life story of Reena Virk, whose life came to the same tragic end shown in the play.

Not only did the play receive multiple awards, including best director for the Sears Fest Provincial showcase, but it expanded to becoming a strong message for anti-bullying.

Manjit and Suman Virk, the parents of Reena, travelled from their home in British Columbia to see the play, giving talks to audience members about anti-bullying. This play is a clear example of how far a positive message can spread. Congrats to the drama program!

Plaidapalooza

Plaidapalooza is Walkerville's yearly talent show held at the end of the year, and this year's was more successful than ever. With acts including instrumental music, dance, video, song, and much more, it was clear that Walkerville's talents are not few and far between. There were even performances by teachers!

The audience was thrilled to see the acts and the only thing that could possibly be better is the promise of next year's performances.

I love that feeling when someone does a performance and I go "That's so awesome, I had no idea they could do that!"
Liam Higgins, grade 10

Don't worry, but this might hurt a little bit...

Blood Donation

It's safe to say that we had donors coming in to give blood faster than you could say "roll up your sleeves, Walkerville". This year, we had more than 30 students out to donate per trip. That's 90 lives saved alone! Even with the pain associated and the heartache incurred from donating (My iron needs to be how high?), Walkerville was always in great spirits after every trip, although a bit paler walking out than going in. Besides, free cookies and soup are never a bad thing.

Walkerville is one of the top 10 schools for most donations in Ontario.

lives saved per one donation.

Special thanks to Jacob Gordner and Sarah Robinson, who were the student coordinators during this year's donations.

24 Hour Art

Painting is so much more fun when you feel like you're going a bit crazy.

-Chloe DeRoy, grade 12

What do you get when you combine about 30 visual art students, 24 hours of non-stop painting and some creativity? No, this isn't a bad joke, it's the recipe for 24 hour art.

Although 24 can seem like a sleep deprived nightmare, students see it as a great way to get the creative juices flowing at the beginning of the year. All the paintings created were showcased in the front hallway of the school, and will eventually fill the back wall of the cafeteria; the ultimate mural.

WCCA 20th Anniversary

It's hard to imagine that WCCA was barely a twinkle in John Vaccratsis' eye twenty years ago. A couple decades later, and the program is a powerhouse of talent, spanning from dance to drawing and everything between.

Along with an impressive list of graduates, WCCA also helped tie bonds between arts programs and promote friendships between students. "It's awesome when you look at a production as a drama student, and you say 'wow! I'm so amazed at what the visual arts students did!'" said Mike Radovan, a current grade 12 student.

Perhaps the next twenty years will be better, if that's even possible!

Graduates from WCCA

Rory O'Connor, graduated with a bachelor's in fine arts and has designed a monument in Dieppe, France honouring the Essex Scottish Regiment.

Peter Senchuck is a successful trombonist, filmmaker, and composer. His works are internationally acclaimed.

Craig Ramsay is a professional dancer, actor, singer on Broadway and has appeared in TV movies (Once Upon a Mattress), Jay Leno and the Today Show.

Graduation

We've finally made it! It was 4 years ago when we entered Walkerville, brace faced and pimple ridden. Most of us were probably pretty nervous too. And now, look at us. All grown up, and may I add, looking pretty beautiful. So now, we're finishing the chapter of our lives that is high school and moving onto... what exactly? Hey wait, I thought we outgrew that feeling of butterflies about 4 years ago. I mean I'm sure a lot of us know what we're going to do. But I'm sure a lot of us don't, or aren't sure, or anything between. Which makes a lot of sense; grade school and high school is sort of planned for you. Compare that to whatever you do post-secondary... it's sort of like being lead by hand down a winding path that leads to a cliff, then tossed off that cliff, with said person yelling "find yourself a parachute." Now, the question becomes "what's next". We're about to be plunged into a world where mistakes have consequences that mom and dad can't fix, a world that's more open-ended than we thought possible, a world where every thing's shiny new, but be careful what you touch. So what are we going to do? That's certainly not an answer I can give to everyone in the time I'm up here. In fact, I'm sure answering that question will take some people a lifetime. But you know, I think it's time to be a little selfish and do what you need to do. And hey, maybe that's university or college, maybe that's another year of high school or going into the workplace. Maybe it's backpacking through Europe or becoming a wandering poet-minstrel.

Besides, you know some of the best, most successful people ever strayed off the beaten path? Einstein worked at a patent office while developing the theory of relativity. JK Rowling was a single mother on welfare when she wrote the first Harry Potter. And Bill Gates, he dropped out of college to make computers, although I wouldn't suggest that, because we all know how wildly unsuccessful he is. Anyways, I know we'll all end up doing what we need to eventually, and I know we'll all be okay. We'll make mistakes, but that's always the case; remember those all-nighters we pulled to finish assignments that killed us for the rest of the week? How about that pass in soccer that you made to the wrong team? Maybe that home done haircut you should have thought out? Yeah, I'm sure none of you have any idea what I'm talking about. But we'll be successful too. Remember that unstoppable senior boys volleyball team? How about that reduce me to tears Sears Fest play? No? How about more than a handful of students winning first place in Kiwanis? Or two of our students carrying the Olympic torch, or our various pluralist award winners, our gold-status eco-school certification? I'm sure a lot felt awesome just hanging around in the smoker's pit. Jeez, if I listed everything, we'd be here until at least September. See, we're going to do better than alright, we're going to thrive.

There were teachers to help us along the way too, be it Mr. Lock's... eccentric antics, or Mr. Cetra's wonderful math jokes. Do you guys remember Mr. Cetra baking us a batch of "frownies" when we forgot our calculators? How about how wonderful our English teachers were, broadening our minds, all while teaching us the proper meaning of irony. The secretaries were wonderful too, helping us get home safe when we were actually sick. And I'm sure everyone remembers Mr. Ferguson with his various grade nine pumpkin experiments. See? No matter what we do, there will always be people to help out. And if you get overwhelmed, just remember those huge oak trees you used to play around when you were a kid? They started off as little seeds too. Cheesy I know, but what's a valedictorian speech without a little cheese? So, when we get lead down that path, and pushed off that cliff, don't worry. We don't need a parachute, because Walkerville, we're gonna fly.

THEY NEVER TOLD YOU ...

"The way we breed animals for food is a threat to the planet. ... The results are disastrous."
 Dr. David Brubaker

Eating Meat

Water

More than half of all the water consumed in the U.S. is used to raise animals for food. A vegetarian diet requires 300 gallons of water per day, while a meat-eating diet requires more than 1,000 gallons.

Is Destroying

Deforestation

Cattle-ranching is the number one cause of Amazonian deforestation. In Central America, two-thirds of the rain forests have been cleared, primarily to raise cattle.

Energy

Raising animals for food requires more than one-third of all raw materials and fossil fuels used in the United States.

the Earth

Pollution The meat industry causes more water pollution in the United States than all other industries combined. More than 10 billion animals are raised and killed for food every year in the U.S. alone; they have to eat, and their waste has to go somewhere.

▲ HAITI'S DISASTER TOUCHED US ALL. It lasted just 35 seconds, but the 7.0-magnitude earthquake that shook Haiti on Jan. 12, killed an estimated 230,000 and injured another 300,000. It left a million people homeless, and destroyed government buildings, hospitals, schools and the National Cathedral (top) in Port-au-Prince, the capital city. Amid the immediate chaos, international aid and rescue efforts began to pour in, bringing troops armed with supplies and medical assistance. It will take years to rebuild this nation, the poorest in the Western hemisphere, but the world opened its heart and its wallet in the face of the devastation. Contributions and commitments totaling more than $2 billion will go a long way to get Haiti back on its feet.

▼ NEW KIDS ON THE BLOCK. The young Obama family energized Washington and captivated the world from the minute they moved into the White House. People were intrigued by Michelle creating a vegetable garden on the historic grounds and Barack's enthusiasm for going out for burger lunches. While the Obamas tried to keep the lives of their girls (Malia, left, and Sasha with their parents below) as normal as possible, they did allow their children to tag along on foreign tours. Not every kid gets to brag that they had tea with the Queen of England!

► LESSON LEARNED. Elementary school kids in Britain took part in an agricultural project to discover where food comes from by studying all aspects of farm life. They raised lambs (like the one pictured right) and named one of them Marcus. Then, over the objections of parents and animal rights activists, the kids voted 13 to one to send Marcus to slaughter to earn money for the next part of the course: raising pigs. By pressing ahead with their decision, these kids learned about the full cycle of food production and insisted that no one was going to pull the wool over their eyes.

► GREEN FOR GOOD. Thousands of Iranians, decked out in the opposition colour of green, took to the streets after Mahmoud Ahmadinejad was re-elected president of the Islamic republic by a suspiciously wide margin. When Tehran banned foreign media from attending the demonstrations, opposition supporters turned to cellphones, Twitter, Facebook and virtually every other form of social media to spread news about their activities throughout the world. Now every repressive regime has to worry not only about political opponents, but ordinary citizens armed with "weapons" of mass communications.

▲ NATURE'S POWER. The volcano under Iceland's Eyjafjallajökull glacier erupted on April 14 when a massive explosion sent a dangerous cloud of volcanic ash drifting across much of Europe. Since glass particles trapped within the ash cloud can destroy aircraft engines, aviation authorities quickly grounded virtually all flights on the continent, stranding thousands of passengers. Ominously, everyone waiting for the volcano to quieten down was aware that the last time it erupted, in 1821, Eyjafjallajökull continued belching noxious plumes for two years.

► FIRST THE BANKS, THEN THE COUNTRIES. After nations around the world spent billions to stabilize the banking system, those countries' balance sheets became a new source of worry. Many countries spent wildly during the good times and racked up staggering debts. Then, as the recession hit, their national accounts went from bad to worse and soon many were drowning in red ink. One of the most spectacular failures was Dubai, an emirate in the Middle East. Just before it opened its latest extravaganza, the world's largest building, it was forced to suspend payment on its $60-billion debt. Its stock market crashed. Concerns that larger, wealthier nations like Greece, Spain and Britain could go the way of Dubai are keeping financiers around the world up at night, as they wonder where the next crisis may hit.

► A SHOT THAT SAVED THE WORLD. Late last year, health officials were bracing for a deadly crisis to sweep the globe. Scientists raced to create a vaccine that could be used to fight off H1N1, the flu that many feared would kill tens of thousands of people. Fortunately, the race was won, and a massive inoculation campaign spared most of us from getting it. Still, H1N1 did kill about 17,000 people worldwide, and the virus may still linger among us, which makes rolling up your sleeve to get next season's shot a top priority.

▲ ERR, HAPPY BIRTHDAY! China's Communist party was determined that nothing interfere with a massive party to mark the 60th anniversary of the 1949 revolution that brought it to power. In addition to the usual parades and fireworks, the regime pumped billions into the economy to keep workers employed, tossed dissidents who could disrupt the party in prison and cracked down on protests by restive ethnic minorities like the Tibetans and Uighurs. Then, while the Asian power barreled its way through the Great Recession, experts blew out the party cake's candles by warning that China's real estate sector was dangerously overheated.

▼ UNBURIED TREASURE. Prowling around a friend's farmland in Staffordshire, England, with a metal detector last summer, Terry Herbert stumbled upon what has been described as the largest Anglo-Saxon treasure ever discovered. The massive collection of 1,500 pieces, dating from the seventh century, includes gold and silver crosses, sword decorations and other items, some of which are shown here. Experts have valued the hoard at $5 million, which will be shared between the treasure hunter and the landowner.

◀ GOLDEN GAMES. National pride spilled over in February as Canada hosted what many are claiming to be the best Olympic Games ever. From the dazzling opening ceremony—where 16-year-old Montrealer Niko Yanofsky (above, on stage) belted out the national anthem—to the rollicking carnival atmosphere on the streets of Vancouver and our highest medal count ever for a Winter Olympics, it was a proud moment for Canadians. Everyone seemed to embrace a new patriotism, waving flags and dreaming big. There was a strong demand for everything Olympic: Yanofsky's rendition of the CTV Olympic broadcast theme, I Believe, quickly rose to No. 1 on Canada's Hot 100 and became the top song on iTunes Canada.

▼ LIPS WERE SEALED. Governor General Michaëlle Jean (below) made a gesture of solidarity with Canada's seal hunters last year when she ate a piece of the animal's raw heart during a community festival in Rankin Inlet, Nunavut. While some found the vice-regal nibble to be in bad taste, others have since followed her lead. In March, seal meat appeared on the menu at the Parliamentary Restaurant in Ottawa for the first time in history. But despite our politicians' efforts to put their mouths where the money is, the European Union pressed ahead with a ban on the import of seal products.

▼ THIS MUTT IS A HERO. When a two-year-old toddler wandered away from his family's campsite into the Yukon bush last September, a frantic search ensued. But tiny Kale was not found before nightfall, and his parents were bracing for bad news. Apparently, the boy had trailed after a local dog that was wandering nearby, and the furry pet stayed with him through the night and through the next day until a helicopter spotted the pair. Police said it's likely the boy survived by cuddling up with the mutt to keep warm through the night. Koda's owner was so moved by the incident that she gave the dog to Kale's family, where, she said, she knew he would have a loving home.

◀ RESCUE ON THE HIGH SEAS. Students, teachers and crew aboard the SV Concordia drifted for 30 hours in the Atlantic Ocean, 550 km off the coast of Brazil after their three-masted tall ship sank in heavy winds last February. The Concordia, a Nova Scotia-based floating classroom for senior high school students, was on a five-month trip around the world. When the ship lurched sideways, the students' emergency training kicked in, allowing them to scramble into life rafts where they and the crew, 64 people in all, floated until the Brazilian navy picked up their distress signal and got them to dry land. "It was like the Titanic," said one tired and shaken student.

▼ PROROGATION 2.0. For the second time in a year, Parliament went missing in action for two months when the Conservative government suspended the session after Christmas in order, it said, to "recalibrate" its agenda. The prorogation came on the heels of weeks of tough questioning by opposition parties about the torture of prisoners turned over to the Afghan government by Canadian soldiers. Voters were not impressed with this extended vacation, and the Conservatives' popularity plummeted in the polls. Lesson of the day: Parliament belongs to the people, and we want our House to be in session.

◀ CANADA'S BLACK EYE. Canada distinguished itself among the 190 countries in attendance at the United Nations Climate Summit in Copenhagen last December by winning the Colossal Fossil of the Year award. The "prize" was awarded by the Climate Action Network, a coalition of environmental groups, to the country that most obstructed progress at the summit. Canadian politicians were criticized for failing to show leadership, especially when they insisted Canada had to hold off on our own greenhouse gas emissions regulations until the United States developed its policies. Since 1990 Canada's greenhouse gas emissions have soared 27 per cent, mainly due to the massive expansion of Alberta's oil sands (left). Emissions for oil sands production are on average three to four times higher per barrel than conventional crude oil produced in North America. The pressure on Canada, including calls for a boycott of oil-sands fuel, led Environment Minister Jim Prentice to call on energy firms to clean up their act.

◀ OPERATION AFGHANISTAN. Fresh troops deployed from Edmonton for a tour of duty with Canada's military mission in Afghanistan, which began soon after the Sept. 11, 2001 attacks on the United States. More than 2,500 Canadian soldiers are based in the dangerous southern part of the country, and more than 145 Canadians have been killed since the mission began. After U.S. President Barack Obama ordered 30,000 more American troops to join in the fight, hopes rose that this surge will stop the Taliban before Canada begins to withdraw its combat forces in 2011.

► ROAD WARRIORS. To say the auto sector has suffered during the recession is the mildest of understatement. After sales crashed, Chrysler and General Motors had to be rescued with billions in aid from the U.S. and Canadian governments. Even Toyota was under siege as millions of its vehicles, including the popular hybrid Prius, were recalled after experiencing unexplained sudden accelerations. There was good news, however. Ford posted its first annual profit in four years and the car of the year award went to its Fusion. Best of all, the Big Three unveiled some stylish new cars and began to ramp up production.

Music

► TAYLOR STRIKES A CHORD WITH US. Let's see now: Last year Taylor Swift won four Country Music Awards and five American Music Awards. She was named entertainer of the year by the Associated Press, and her second album, Fearless, was the best-selling album of 2009 in the US with more than 3.2 million copies sold. Swift claimed both the No. 1 and No. 2 positions atop the most played songs chart (all genres), with You Belong With Me and Love Story, respectively. At the Grammy Awards in January, Swift won four statues, including one for album of the year. All these accomplishments were achieved before the singer had even celebrated her twentieth birthday. Her songs are usually highly autobiographical. And no wonder: this girl has a lot to sing about.

▲ SHE'S NOT LOOKING BACK. After her very public split from abusive boyfriend Chris Brown, who subsequently pleaded guilty to assault, Rihanna has bounced back stronger and more confident than ever. Fresh from winning an award at the Grammys for the rap collaboration Run This Town, she began a concert tour, featuring her latest album Rude B, which includes the catchy single Rude Boy. Hmm. Wonder who that song was named after!

(Rihanna: [unreadable])

◀ DISCO DIVA. With her outlandish outfits, wild wigs and sparkly masks, Lady Gaga has grabbed center stage. But behind her fearless fashion is a seriously talented performer who writes her own songs and can sing, dance, play instruments and act. With her summer concert tour underway, fans are in for never-ending surprises, as Lady Gaga re-invents herself at every turn along the way.

► THIS IDOL ISN'T IDLE. It's hard to believe that it was just last year when Adam Lambert grabbed second place in the eighth season of American Idol. With his flamboyant costumes and his tightly choreographed dance moves, Lambert asks Whataya Want From Me? But he already knows the answer, and he delivers. As his debut album explains, he does it all For Your Entertainment. And he does it with style.

(Lambert: [unreadable])

▲ PEAS HAVE A RECIPE FOR SUCCESS. The pop sound of the Black Eyed Peas, is alive and well. After a four-year hiatus, during which singer Fergie was working on her solo career, the band was back with a new album, The E.N.D., which quickly became a multi-platinum seller. But then, who could resist that infectious party anthem I Gotta Feeling? Ooh-whooh!

► THE WORLD IS WAVING K'NAAN'S FLAG. As teams from 32 nations line up for this year's FIFA World Cup in South Africa, they're all moving to K'Naan's Wavin' Flag. The Somali-born rapper's song, which appeared on his 2009 album, Troubadour, is the official Coca-Cola anthem for the World Cup. For the artist, who was raised in Toronto, but who incorporates an African pride into his lyrics, being part of the world's biggest sporting event holds a deeper meaning. He hopes it will be an opportunity for the world to see Africa in a positive light, "because most of the images associated with Africa are negative." Earlier in the year, more than 50 Canadian musicians gathered in Vancouver to re-record Wavin' Flag. It was then released as a charity single, with all proceeds going to Haiti's earthquake victims.

(The Canadian Press/David White)

► SAY HALO TO BEYONCÉ. The superstar set a record for the most Grammy Awards won on a single night by a female artist on Jan. 31, 2010, when she took home six awards. And now she is catching a new whiff of sweet success: her first fragrance, Heat, did $3 million in sales during its first month on the shelves at Macy's stores.

(Lyle L. Chittenden/Los Angeles Times/REX)

▲ THE HIT MASTER. In its year-end wrap-up last December, Entertainment Weekly named Jay-Z's 2001 album The Black Album to its list of the 10 best albums of the decade. And it's just one of nine Jay-Z records that have topped the charts and made this rapper perhaps the most influential poet of his time. The most recent songs to ride the charts include Empire State of Mind with Alicia Keys (above) and Run This Town with Rihanna and Kanye West.

(Key: [unreadable])

► KINGS OF THE CASTLE. For the Kings of Leon, four country boys from Nashville, the past year has been amazing. Their fourth album, Only by the Night, sold six million copies worldwide and earned them two Grammy Awards for the hit single Use Somebody. The hard-rocking band comprised of brothers Nathan, Caleb and Caleb Followill, as well as their cousin Matthew, took inspiration from their earlier albums and new producer Mike Rodden. The catchiest, the best, we say. That way, we can sing along.

(Kings of Leon: [unreadable])

▶ YOUTUBE SENSATION. Thanks to the camera in every cellphone, anyone can be a star on YouTube. And no one found fame faster than Justin Bieber, from Stratford, Ont., whose golden voice and fresh face earned him second place in a talent contest when he was only 12. For family and friends who missed the competition, he uploaded videos on YouTube. By chance, a U.S. hip-hop promoter clicked on Justin's videos and soon set to work to build up his YouTube content before signing him to Island Records, Usher's label. Within a year Justin had played major venues in North America and Europe, including Madison Square Garden in New York City. He sang for President Obama in a Christmas show and appeared at the Grammy Awards in January. Meanwhile, his first album, My World, debuted at No. 6 on the Billboard 200 chart, attracting almost 2 million friends to his Facebook page. Next came My World 2.0, which topped the pop charts. Not bad for a guy who just reached the legal driving age in March. (AP Photo/Chris Pappas)

▼ IWANNIT. The new iPad tablet computer looks like an iPhone on steroids. With its touchpad screen and 140,000-odd apps, there's not a lot new here. But it's all so much bigger and better. This latest gadget from Apple makes using the Web easier than ever. Talk about having the whole world in your hands! (Dan Jost/Reuters/News/GET)

▶ FASHION MEETS FUNCTION. When it comes to footwear, there's a lot to be said for sensible. This year, Hunter dressed up the ol' tried-and-true rubber boot, offering a trendy way to keep tootsies dry. (AP Photo/Chris Pappas)

▲ MOP HEADS. Actor Robert Pattinson (a.k.a. Edward Cullen in the Twilight movies) is the undisputed bed-head champion, sporting the look every time-pressed guy hopes for. Electrifying! (Wally Schwan/Chicago County Register/GET)

▲ AIRPORT A-GO-GO. What exactly are we allowed in the way of carry-on luggage these days? First there were restrictions on liquids: everything had to be trial size or smaller and packed in clear plastic bags. But after a would-be bomber tried to detonate explosives hidden in his underwear last Christmas on a flight to Detroit, the rules have tightened and slackened, causing lots of confusion. Things have again settled down to the old restrictions: all liquids must be 100 ml or smaller. But now there is something new at the airport: full body screening technology, a sort of high-tech strip search. It's enough to make you wish you'd taken the train. (Reuters/Associated Press/Reuters/News/GET)

▲ MISSION ACCOMPLISHED. Call of Duty: Modern Warfare 2 takes a hard look at the disorienting effects of armed combat. The constant pace of the action challenges players' reflexes and accuracy, and ignites our survival instincts. It all adds up to some of the best shooter action money can buy, and millions of fans did just that, making Modern Warfare 2 one of the top-selling video games of all time, with sales topping $1 billion in its first two months. (Reuters/Associated Press)

▶ MAD FOR PLAID. The lumberjack look has taken over the nation's high schools. Even girls are wearing these checkered shirts. Checkmate. (Michael Grecco/Chicago Tribune/GET)

▶ THUMBS DOWN. Texting while moving—whether walking, driving or cycling—can be tricky, treacherous, and sometimes tragic. In January, the U.S. government took aim at distracted drivers, and barred truckers and bus drivers from sending text messages while behind the wheel. The move followed a report from Virginia Tech that showed truckers who text were 23 times more likely to be involved in a crash or close call. Even walking can be a challenge for cellphone users. One New York teen fell into an open sewer manhole while texting as she walked. Fortunately what really hurt was her pride. (AP Photo/Chris Pappas)

► A DREAM FULFILLED. Susan Boyle was a middle-aged Scottish spinster who wanted to be a professional singer. She got her wish with the help of YouTube when word of her amazing audition on Britain's Got Talent spread around the world. Soon more than 125 million people had watched her exquisite version of I Dreamed a Dream from Les Misérables. Though she didn't win the reality show contest, she did fulfill her wish. Last December her first album was released. It's sold more than nine million copies. (Photo by Ben Minkin / Rex USA)

► TIGER IN THE ROUGH. After guffing superstar Tiger Woods had a mysterious car accident in the middle of the night last November, stories began swirling about trouble in his personal life as women went public with claims of affairs with the married father of two. As the scandal grew, sponsors dropped the billionaire sports phenom from their advertising strategies. Finally the ultra-private Woods publicly confessed his infidelity, apologized to his wife and fans, and vowed to make amends. (AP Photo/Chris Wedel)

► A PERFECT 10. How much would you sacrifice for a shot at Olympic glory? The gymnasts of Make It or Break It will take on anything, even each other, to reach their lofty goal. And that conflict, combined with superb athletic prowess, makes for a drama that lets audiences dream the seemingly impossible dream. (Cory Weiss / CBS Family / Courtesy: Everett Collection)

◀ REVOLVING CHAIRS. The drama normally reserved for American Idol's stage moved to its judging table this year when the flamboyantly wacky Paula Abdul was let go after eight seasons, replaced by talk-show host Ellen DeGeneres (from left: judges Randy Jackson, DeGeneres, Simon Cowell, host Ryan Seacrest and Kara DioGuardi). In turn DeGeneres had barely settled into her seat when the curmudgeonly Cowell announced he was leaving at the end of the season to bring his British talent show, The X Factor, stateside. The judging twists and turns made the singing contest look almost staid in comparison. (Michael Becker/Courtesy FOX/ABC)

◀ THE KING OF POP. Michael Jackson was just days from starting a series of comeback concerts in London when he died suddenly in Los Angeles at the age of 50. The world grieved for his three children and devastated family, and questions were being asked about the drugs given to the pop superstar by his personal physician. While his song-making prowess was legendary, it was only at his memorial service that fans saw a more private side of the singer through the simple words of his daughter Paris: "Ever since I was born, Daddy has been the best father I could imagine. I just want to say I love him so much." (Photo: Reuters/Black Photo/ABC)

◀ CRAZY FOR YOU. Any doubt that Twilight has made stars of its actors vanished when the paparazzi recorded every second of a Rolling Stone photo shoot featuring Taylor Lautner, the series' leading werewolf. Teens swooned over his physique—he packed on 30 pounds of muscle for the role—and his short-lived relationship with singing sensation Taylor Swift. At least he's been spared the fate of leading vampire Robert Pattinson, who's so hunted by fans that he was nearly run over by a New York City taxi while trying to escape from a crowd of screaming girls. (Cory L. Casadon/Los Angeles Times/ABC)

◀ IT'S TIME HAS COME. Doozy 3-D glasses are here to stay. The hottest trend on the big screen right now is making films in 3-D. Ward's week does by without a major motion picture coming out in that format, as studios rush to film everything from Ministers vs. Abel to Christmas Carol in the grand-bending format. And of course there was no exception as James Cameron's Avatar, which broke virtually every box office record, the latest 3-D television, all the better to capturing every moment of sports events. (AP Photo/Chris Wedel)

◀ THE SOURCE. Hollywood gossip site, TMZ.com, has developed a reputation for breaking big celebrity stories, from announcing Michael Jackson's death to showing Rihanna's bruised and bloodied face, after her then-boyfriend Chris Brown beat her on Grammy night last year. In addition to the big stories, the site, which stands for the "thirty-mile zone" within which most celebrities live in Los Angeles, has an amazing knack for reporting on the wacky behavior of the high and mighty. It is the new cop on the Hollywood block. (ABC.com)

► ICED PERFECTION. It was only natural that Canada would have a hit reality show that paired female figure skaters with retired NHL players. From the start CBC's Battle of the Blades pulled in huge audiences, and nearly half of viewers were men who couldn't get enough of such hockey stars as Claude Lemieux and Tie Domi effortlessly hoisting their partners at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens. Jamie Salé and Craig Simpson (right) won the contest, proving once again that Canadians are masters on the ice. (AP Photo/Mark Wilson)

◀ THE LITTLE SHOW THAT COULD. A series set in an Ohio high school glee club was the surprise breakout success of the TV season. Glee's irreverent take on the traumas of teenage life, combined with slick song-and-dance numbers turned its cast of unknown talents, including Canadian Cory Monteith, into stars. By the time Glee picked up a Golden Globe for best TV comedy series, it had been renewed for a second season, and an album of songs covered on the show had sold more than two million downloads. (ABC)

► BITE ME. Fangs and blood mix with romance and horror in The Vampire Diaries. Based on a series of books with the same name, the TV show revolves around a small town girl, Elena Gilbert (Nina Dobrev), and her complicated relationship with vampire Stefan Salvatore (Paul Wesley, right, with Dobrev) and his bad-boy brother Damon. What sets the show apart is that its creators have populated Mystic Falls with so many interesting characters who go bump in the night. (ABC)

▲ THE ECO WARRIOR. Thirteen years after James Cameron was crowned the "King of the World" for his blockbuster Titanic, the Canadian director finally released his follow-up, Avatar. Instead of delving into history, Cameron created a faraway planet named Pandora. There a blue-skinned people called the Na'vi were fighting to preserve their land and stop humans from destroying the environment in their quest for a precious mineral called unobtainium. To make the magical world believable, Cameron created a camera system that translated live action into a virtual reality. The extraordinary result rewrote the box office record books, as the 3-D film unseated Titanic as the highest grossing film of all time. (Courtesy: MPTV)

► GOLDEN GIRL. After decades building up a resume of hit comedies and romantic chick flicks, Sandra Bullock finally struck gold in The Blind Side. She played Leigh Anne Tuohy, a Southern football coach's wife who takes in, and later adopts, an impoverished teen named Michael Oher. While Tuohy and her husband push the teen both academically and athletically, he, in turn, teaches the couple that doing the right thing can change their lives forever. (In real life, Michael Oher is an offensive tackle for the Baltimore Ravens.) When Bullock got her statue for Best Actress at the Academy Awards she thanked her mother "for not letting me ride in cars with boys until I was 18, because she was right." ▼ DOWN THE RABBIT HOLE. Lewis Carroll's Alice in Wonderland is a magical childhood fantasy, and also one of the most difficult tales to translate to the big screen. But when director Tim Burton, known for his quirky imaginative movies, took an interest in the book, he made two crucial decisions: to cast Johnny Depp as the Mad Hatter and to release the film in 3-D. The result blew away the competition and racked up $116 million in its opening weekend. (Courtesy: Warner Entertainment/MPTV)

▲ TO BOLDLY RETURN... After five TV series and 10 movies, the Star Trek franchise needed a shakeup. And that's exactly what designer J.J. Abrams did. Viewers saw how the crew of the original Enterprise first met, long before the time of the classic 1960s TV show. James T. Kirk wasn't an arrogant captain but a brash cadet trying to stave off disaster. And Mr. Spock wasn't his trusty Vulcan sidekick, ears and all, but a fierce opponent. Though Abrams was faithful to Star Trek lore, his new vision of the future was so eclectic that a sequel was announced even before the first film hit theaters. ◀ BEST IN SHOW. When it first came out last summer, The Hurt Locker garnered rave reviews as the most authentic movie to date about the war in Iraq. Director Kathryn Bigelow's action-packed film followed a bomb disposal team as they dealt not only with unexploded devices but also with the psychological toll of such a deadly profession. While The Hurt Locker didn't blow up the box office, it ended award season with almost every big prize, including the biggest of all: Oscars for Best Picture and Best Director. ## TOP 10 • 2009 Movies

1. Avatar $742 million
2. Transformers: Revenge of the Fallen $402 million
3. Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince $302 million
4. The Twilight Saga: New Moon $297 million
5. Up $293 million
6. The Hangover $277 million
7. Star Trek $258 million
8. The Blind Side $255 million
9. Alvin and the Chipmunks: The Squeakquel $219 million
10. Sherlock Holmes $209 million

◀ NEARLY FINISHED. For followers of the Hogwarts saga, Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince marked the beginning of the end of the beloved series. Only the seventh and final of J.K. Rowling's books remains to hit the big screen. At the heart of Half-Blood Prince was the increasingly close relationship between Harry Potter and headmaster Albus Dumbledore as they searched for the reasons why arch enemy Lord Voldemort is so evil. Even better for fans? The last book is being divided into two movies. (Source: Warner Bros./MPTV)

► A SECOND BITE. When New Moon premiered in December the question wasn't whether it would be a hit or not, but rather how much it would rake in at the box office. Fans of Stephenie Meyer's Twilight series lined up for hours to watch the second theatrical adaptation of the romance between Bella Swan and her vampire love Edward Cullen. It quickly made $297 million in North America, another $400 million overseas, and left everyone panting for the next instalment. (Source: Summit/MPTV)

► ROUND TWO. The sequel to a film about cars that transform themselves into metallic warriors was bound to involve bigger fights and even louder action scenes than the original. In Transformers: Revenge of the Fallen the evil Decepticons resumed their feud with the Autobots, led by Optimus Prime (right), with Earth again their battlefield. Still can't get enough? A third film is already in the works. (Source: Paramount Pictures/MPTV)

◀ KING OF THE HILL. It took Alexandre Bilodeau 23.17 seconds to fly down the moguls course on Cypress Mountain, and in the process, to make Olympic history. On the third night of competition at the Vancouver Games, he became the first Canadian ever to win a gold medal on home soil. After his race, Bilodeau rushed over to hug his older brother Frédéric, who has cerebral palsy, and who, Alex says, is his daily source of inspiration. When he thinks of Frédéric's bravery and determination, and what it takes for him to get through a day, Alex says it puts all his own aches and pains from training "back in perspective." ▲ THIS IS OUR GAME. It doesn't get more dramatic than the Canada-U.S. men's hockey final at the Winter Olympics. With 24 seconds left in the third period, U.S. forward Zach Parise tied the game, 2-2, and forced the match into extra time. The crowd fell into stony silence, and barely breathed as the overtime play got underway. Then, seven minutes into the period, Canada's Sidney Crosby slipped the puck past U.S. goalie Ryan Miller (top), and secured the gold medal for the home team. With that shot, Crosby capped off a Winter Games that many said were the best yet. Of course the men weren't the only ones to secure hockey gold for Canada. The women (above) had celebrated their own 2-0 victory over Team U.S.A. three days earlier. (Photo: USA Hockey/Chris Wedel)

▶ SPEEDING BULLET. We're not sure what drives grown men and women to launch themselves upon tiny sleds head-first down a chute of ice at speeds of up to 145 km/h, but we do know that Jon Montgomery, a prairie boy from Russell, Man., captured a first-place finish in his skeleton competition and in the process became Canada's most lovable Olympian. When he jumped onto the medal podium and struck an exuberant victory pose, the whole country joined the party. (Photo: J. Thompson/Canada Press/Chris Wedel)

▶ ICE DEMONS. Ten of Canada's 26 Olympic medals were won by speed skaters, with short-track phenom Charles Hamelin (far right) the only Canadian athlete to win two golds in Vancouver. On both the short and long tracks, the men and women who skate in circles kept Canada in contention. (Photo: Michael Phillips/Canada Press/Chris Wedel)

▶ NO BRAINER. After too many devastating injuries, including a hit to Boston Bruins' Marc Savard that saw him carried from the ice on a stretcher during a game against the Pittsburgh Penguins in March, the NHL finally activated a temporary rule which calls for an automatic league review and possible suspension for any hit to the head against unsuspecting players. It's about time the league got serious about reducing injuries and concussions. (Photo: Michael Phillips/Canada Press/Chris Wedel)

◀ A SQUEAKER. For most of last season the Montreal Alouettes rode the strong throwing arm of quarterback Anthony Calvillo (shown here hoisting the Grey Cup with teammate Anwar Stewart), but in the final seconds of the 2009 Grey Cup, when they were trailing the Saskatchewan Roughriders by two points, the Alouettes pinned their hopes on kicker Damon Duval to boot a 43-yard field goal for the win. When Duval missed the kick, the Roughriders began to celebrate a bit prematurely. They had 13 players on the field and were flagged for too many men. So Duval got another chance to kick that field goal. The second time, the ball sailed through the goal posts, and made the Alouettes CFL champions, with a score of 28 to 27. (Photo: Canada Press/Chris Wedel)

▶ CANADA'S SWEETHEARTS. They started skating together 13 years ago when she was only 7 and he was 11. Obviously it was the perfect pairing: ice dancers Tessa Virtue and Scott Moir skated flawlessly, executing intricate spins and high-rise lifts to capture gold at the Vancouver Games. (See moir) Later the pair, who aren't romantically involved, capped off their perfect year by taking the top prize at the world figure skating championship in Turin, Italy. Sometimes, fairy tales do come true. (Photo: Canada Press/Chris Wedel)

▶ THE BIG APPLE BITES BACK. For Alex Rodriguez, last year was a roller coaster. A few months before opening day, the New York Yankees third baseman—the highest paid athlete in baseball—admitted using steroids from 2001 to 2003. After missing spring training because of a torn hip ligament, Rodriguez and his batting prowess helped propel the team to a first place finish. Then he got his first World Series victory when the Yankees defeated Philadelphia 7-3 in the sixth game. It was the team's 27th series win, something even its opponents grudgingly had to acknowledge was a job well done. (Photo: David J. Phillip/Chris Wedel)

▼ MAIDEN VOYAGE. Boeing's new "green" plane, the 787 Dreamliner, took its very first flight last December. By constructing the fuselage of plastic and other lightweight materials, the company says the Dreamliner will use about 20 per cent less fuel than a plane of similar size. With such huge savings in their operating expenses, airlines are eagerly awaiting delivery of the new planes. But whether those savings will mean lower airfares in the future, only time will tell. ▲ WELCOME BACK. One of the world's rarest turtle species—the Arakan forest turtle—has been observed for the first time in the wild. A team of scientists discovered the reptile deep in the jungles of Burma in Southeast Asia last fall. The adult turtles measure less than a foot in length. The species was believed extinct until 1994, when conservationists found a few specimens in a food market in China. Before then, the last known record was of a single animal collected by a British Army officer in 1908.

▲ MIGHTY MINI REX FOUND IN CHINA. The nearly complete skeleton of a dinosaur that is believed to have roamed the earth about 125 million years ago was unveiled last autumn. Raptorex kriegsteini likely lived at least 40 million years before Tyrannosaurus rex. Though just three metres long, it has all the main characteristics of its legendary descendant—big head, sharp teeth, small arms and fast legs. One scientist studying the skeleton, which was discovered in China, said this mini T. rex was a spectacular carnivore. Weighing only 70 kg, Raptorex "was running things down, dispatching them with its powerful jaws, and clutching them with its two-fingered hands"—the same hunting strategy that apparently worked for six tonne T. rex.

◀ WALK ON WHEELS. Worn out car tires from California are finding new homes underfoot where they are being used as flexible, enviro-friendly sidewalks. Patented Rubbersidewalks not only add bounce to your step, but also assist urban trees whose roots were previously choked by concrete walkways. The new sidewalks let air and water reach the roots, and their flexibility means no cracks in the pavement. With less waste going into landfills, fewer cracked sidewalks and healthier trees, these walks are protecting people, trees and the planet.

► BUDGET TRAVEL. Space exploration isn't just for NASA anymore. Two students from MIT recently put together a rig that flew 27 km into the stratosphere and took hundreds of photos along the way. Justin Lee and Oliver Yeh filled a weather balloon with helium and hung a styrofoam beer cooler underneath to carry a cheap Canon compact camera. Instant hand warmers made sure the batteries stayed warm enough to work, and a prepaid GPS-equipped cellphone inside the box was used to track the voyage. Eventually, as the balloon rose, the air pressure became so great that the balloon burst (right), allowing the cooler to drift back to earth, where it landed about 40 km from where it had been launched. Total cost, including duct tape? $148!

► GARDENS GO VERTICAL. Patrick Blanc is a French botanist who observed that plants in rainforests often survive without soil. He has patented a technique for hanging plant tapestries on the sides of buildings, and has created multi-story living walls on urban structures around the world, including France, Britain, Spain, Korea, Japan and Thailand. Not only do these highrise jungles add colour to drab city streets, they also help to purify the air. Refreshing!
